ITALIAN PRESIDENT WELCOMED AT OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Italian President Giovanni Gronchi arrived by train today for a three-day state visit to Ottawa.

He walked down the red-carpeted platform from his Montreal train to be greeted by Governor-General Massey, Prime Minister St. Laurent, External Affairs Minister Pearson, other members of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps.

Mr. Gronchi read a brief statement in French in which he spoke of Italy's great friendship for Canada. His is the first visit to Canada of an Italian head of state.

HOUSE AFTERMATH

C. D. Schultz Not Now With Pacific Coast Co.

VANCOUVER—A statement was issued here today on behalf of C. D. Schultz, head of C. D. Schultz & Company, the forest consultant firm, denying that he now has any connection with Pacific Coast Services Ltd.

Pacific Coast Services was the firm named by George Gregory MLA in the Legislature early Friday morning in connection with a trip taken by former Forests Minister Robert Sommers and his family to the East in 1953.

A spokesman for Mr. Schultz, when questioned, said Mr. Schultz was a director of Pacific Coast Services Ltd. up until 1949.

Text of the statement issued over Mr. Schultz's name follows:

"My attention has been directed to the report in the Vancouver Province and the Vancouver Sun on March 2nd of the charges made by Mr. George Gregory MLA, and also solicitor for Mr. Sturdy in the Legislature, which names 'Pacific Coast Services Ltd. in which C. D. Schultz and H. W. Gray are interested' and alleges improprieties against this company described by Mr. Gregory as a 'bucket shop'."

Mr. Gregory does not state how I am 'interested' in that company. 'I am not a director, officer, shareholder or employee of Pacific Coast Services Ltd. and am not interested' in that company. Mr. Gregory's statement is false insofar as I am concerned.

"The statement made by Mr. Gregory on the floor of the House is a slander upon me and the newspaper reports containing the statement are a libel.

"However, I am advised by my solicitor that speeches in the Legislature are absolutely privileged and that a faithful report of such speeches in a public newspaper containing matter disparaging to the character of an individual is not actionable at the suit of the person whose character has been defamed.

"Mr. Sturdy's solicitor, Mr. Gregory, being a lawyer, knows this and has taken advantage of the protection afforded him as an MLA to defame me in this manner under conditions where I have no recourse at law.

"I invite Mr. Gregory to republish outside the sanctuary of the Legislature the exact statement made by him in the House."

Election Talk Booms After House Prorogues

MARTIN GIVES ANSWERS ABOUT SALK VACCINE

A question on everyone's mind in the next few weeks is Salk vaccine, to be given to more than 2,000,000 Canadian children. In today's Weekend Magazine, national health minister, Paul Martin, answers a series of pertinent questions about the great anti-polio drive.

FOUR AIR CRASHES

10 Bail Out Over Tacoma

TACOMA, Wash. (UP) — Ten men parachuted from an air force KC-97 tanker today after three of the plane's four engines failed.

The pilot, who was not identified immediately, was able to take the plane into McChord air force base on one engine and crash-landed it. He was taken to a hospital for observation, but officers at the air base said he appeared to be "all right."

The 10 men who parachuted came to earth in a Tacoma residential area.

KEFLAVIK, Iceland (UP) — A jinxed U.S. Air Force Globemaster crashed into the stormy North Atlantic off Iceland Friday night with 17 men aboard and searchers today sighted burned plywood fragments near the area.

A weather ship also reported finding a charred oxygen bottle floating in the sea.

A big air and sea search began immediately after the huge C-124 flashed a "May Day" distress signal shortly after it took off from Keflavik for the Harmon air force base in Newfoundland.

It was the return leg of a hard-luck voyage for the cargo-carrying U.S. aircraft. On the flight to Iceland only a week ago, the plane barely averted a forced ditching in the sea because of engine failure. But it managed to limp safely into Keflavik.

Two Jets Hunted in Washington

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — A 40-man ground party headed up the snowy flakes of 6,820-foot Whitehorse Mountain at dawn today in the search for two missing F89 jet interceptors and the four men the planes carried.

The two twin-engine F89s, all-weather interceptors, were believed to have crashed into the side of Whitehorse Mountain, three miles south and west of Darrington, a logging community 31 miles northeast of here.

Both planes, based at Paine, Wash., reported trouble shortly before they vanished Friday. One of the F89s radioed it was having communications difficulties. Shortly afterward the second jet reported fuel trouble.

The Snohomish county sheriff's office and air force spokesmen at Paine both said they had received two separate reports of two distinct explosions on Whitehorse only seconds apart at approximately 11:52 a.m.

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters) — Seven men are believed to have been killed when a Royal Air Force transport plane crashed in the dense jungle near here.

A helicopter sighted the burned wreckage today and radioed to the air force base: "There is no sign of life."

OTTAWA (CP) — Broad changes in federal housing legislation, including a boost in payments for city slum clearance, were indicated today by Works Minister Winters.

He gave notice of a bill to provide payments to municipalities, totalling up to $25,000,000, "to assist in the clearance, replanning, rehabilitation and modernization of blighted areas."

Officials have said this will permit slum areas, cleared with federal aid, to be used for stores, offices and factories. At present, aid is given only if the cleared area is used for housing, city beautification or municipal structures.

A brief outline of other proposed changes in the National Housing Act were given in Mr. Winters' notice.

Rock Hits PGE Coach, Kills Man

4 Others Hurt In Accident

LILLOOET, B.C. (CP) — One man was killed and four persons were injured Friday night when a rock crashed into the side of the day coach of a Pacific Great Eastern Railway train.

The rock was believed loosed by high winds which swept through interior British Columbia from the coast overnight. The winds reached 53 to 60 miles an hour in gusts at Vancouver.

The accident occurred between Shalalth and Lillooet, about 125 miles northeast of Vancouver. The train was northbound from Squamish to Prince George.

Identity of the fatally injured man was withheld pending notification of his next of kin.

B.C. Man Killed As Car Overturns

HAILEY (CP) — A young Langley man was killed late Friday and his companion pinned beneath their overturned car at Kanaka Creek bridge.

Police said the car apparently went out of control after crossing the bridge and hurtled off the highway.

Injured was Duane McLinton, 21, of Cloverdale.

Name of the dead man is being withheld until next of kin are notified.

Going to Tax Parley

QUEBEC CITY (BUP) — Premier Duplessis announced Friday night he will go to Ottawa March 9 with six aides to meet the federal authorities to discuss their new fiscal proposals.

Last-Minute Plea For Probe Refused

By TOM GOULD, Times Political Reporter

Forecasts of an early general election in British Columbia came from many shades of political opinion today following the prorogation Friday night of the explosive fourth session of the 24th legislature.

Although some observers feel the government has lost ground over the resignation of Forests Minister Robert Sommers and the Sturdy case, experienced political strategists expressed the view Premier W. A. C. Bennett would seek to clear the air with an appeal to the voters.

They point out the resignation of one minister in such circumstances does not necessarily hit the whole administration.

But since a judicial inquiry into the affair has been refused by the government, it is bound to face a running attack in the country on the issue. Only an election could remove this source of criticism.

Both the CCF official opposition, and the Liberal party have conventions slated in Vancouver on April 6 and 7, when plans to fight an election will be drafted.

CCF Ready for 'Any Eventuality'

CCF members held a two-hour caucus after the House prorogued at 8:40 p.m. Friday and laid their plans. The following statement was issued:

"In view of the fact that the government continues to refuse a judicial inquiry, (into the Sturdy case) plans must be laid to take the facts to the people through our own organization."

"We therefore are alerting our organization for any eventuality."

Asked to interpret the phrase "any eventuality," CCF leader Arnold Webster said "that means a possible election in the fall of 1956, or even the spring of 1956."

The government's complete silence on Mr. Sommers' resignation from the cabinet Monday; its refusal to order a royal commission of inquiry; and its failure to defend Mr. Sommers have added to the picture.

No Response to New Charges

Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner did not respond in any way during the marathon sitting of the House Thursday night and Friday morning to new charges against Mr. Sommers laid by George Gregory (L-Victoria).

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, who early this year predicted a spring general election, said: "There may be less chance now than two or three weeks ago."

"The situation has changed. The Social Crediters lost a tremendous amount of ground as a result of their actions in the House and Bennett may not take a chance."

However, the Liberal convention will consider an election program to prepare for what might happen.

Premier Bennett looked tired as the House met for a half-hour session Friday night to prorogue. Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross gave royal assent to bills approved during the session.

The premier will leave Monday for Ottawa, and a resumption of the federal-provincial taxation conference.

PARLEY SET MARCH 26-28

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today formally announced that the meeting of Prime Minister St. Laurent, President Eisenhower and President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico will be held at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., March 26-28.

The ceiling on individual home improvement loans, now $2,500, is expected to be set at about $4,000.

The present ceiling on all housing loans insured by the government would be doubled to $4,000,000.

Under the NHA, the government insures mortgages by approved lending agencies, such as banks and insurance companies, with the borrower paying the insurance premium. The premium is two per cent of the loan's value in the case of home mortgages and one per cent of home improvement loans.

Floods Take One Life In Southern Ontario

TORONTO (BUP) — A vast section of southern Ontario was menaced today by spring floods that already had claimed one life.

Four-year-old Richard McGivern drowned late yesterday in a flood-swollen culvert near his home at Thornhill, north of Toronto.

Granted Reprieve

LONDON (Reuters) — A 22-year-old London warehouseman, Patrick Ross, who was sentenced to death for murdering an Indian student, has been granted a reprieve, the home office announced today.

Two weeks ago the House of Commons voted to abolish hanging as the penalty for murder.

TV Hypnotist Stiffens Viewer 60 Miles Away

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto reporter said Friday he went "stiff as a stick" as he watched a hypnotist on a television show originating in Buffalo, 60 miles away.

Fred Hollett of the Toronto Telegram said he had to be awakened from a trance by telephone after Sam Vine, billed as the amazing Mr. V., put a girl to sleep on a telecast from station VGR-TV Thursday.

When Vine put the girl to sleep Hollett, in the words of his wife, went "stiff as a stick." She yelled at him and clapped her hands, with no effect. So she phoned Vine.

On Vine's instructions she put the telephone to Hollett's ear and the reporter woke up to the sound of:

"Three, two, one . . . When you wake up you'll feel fine, you'll feel better than you ever have before."

Mr. Vine said "the average television viewer has nothing to fear."

Negro Coed Embroiled In Huge Damage Suits

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Miss Autherine Lucy, a Negro coed, was arrested for three days protesting the admission of a negro to the university.

After the suspension, Miss Lucy asked the federal court here to cite 13 university officials and trustees, together with the four who filed the suits on Friday for contempt. She charged they conspired to bar from the campus by using the mob action as a "cunning stratagem."

Miss Lucy's admission to the university, incidentally, was on the basis of a federal court order issued last July. The matter of whether she should be admitted had been fought successfully up to the United States Supreme Court.

DROPPED APPLICATION
Mrs. Hudson at one time also sought enrolment in the university in companion actions with Miss Lucy. After a series of marital difficulties and the birth of a child, however, she dropped her efforts.

Both Miss Lucy's case and that of Mrs. Hudson have been handled by the NAACP and three NAACP lawyers—Thurgood Marshall and Mrs. Constance Motley of New York, and Arthur Shores of Birmingham, all of whom were included among the civil damage defendants.

government, and attempt to use it as an election issue in B.C.

The federal-provincial taxation agreements run out early next year, and the Soereds have made no secret of their dislike of present Ottawa proposals.

Premier Bennett has stated frequently he is "not thinking of an election" this year, but his constant threats in the House to "go to the people" have not been without purpose.

Health Minister Eric Martin may have expressed government thinking when he said that unless the opposition stopped its bitter criticism, "we might have to ask the people who they want."

The Sturdy - Sommers case overshadowed everything else during the session.

It was the first topic raised by the opposition the day after opening day on January 17, and was almost the last topic raised in the House Friday.

Liberal Leader Laing made a last-minute appeal to the government to order an immediate inquiry.

"The integrity of this House is at stake," he said. "We have asked repeatedly for a royal commission."

Mr. Laing said that "almost every member of this House will be happy" if the Sturdy charges are proven untrue.

He read editorials from the Victoria Times, the Victoria Colonist, the Vancouver Sun, and the Vancouver Province, all urging some form of inquiry.

"If the statutory declaration (sworn by Charles Eversfield, a former client of Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy) is true, it means only one thing—that the former minister of lands and forests had taken bribes in connection with forest management licences."

Mr. Laing said Mr. Gregory's charges concerning the eastern trip are "just an atom" of the evidence available.

"The only way the public moral conscience of this province can be preserved is to find out whether these charges are true or false," said Mr. Laing.

Milk Producers Ask Court Test Of New Act

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP)—The Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association wants the provincial government to refer part 3 of the new B.C. Milk Act to the Supreme Court of Canada to determine its validity.

The association's 39th annual convention here passed a resolution Friday calling for this action at the closing session of the meeting.

PRESBYTERIANS OPPOSE ORDINATION OF WOMEN

The Victoria Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church voted Tuesday against ordination of women.

The action followed a general assembly request that local presbyteries study the question and report back to the national body.

The Women's Presbyterial also voted ordination of women down at an earlier meeting.

Rev. E. G. Thompson, of Knox Presbyterian Church, was elected moderator of the Victoria Presbytery for the ensuing year.

Stone-Throwing Mobs Delay Lloyd's Flight

BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (Reuters)—Angry, stone-throwing crowds early today blocked the departure of Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd for four hours, defying the tear gas and bayonets of police.

Two buses were wrecked, and some police and demonstrators were slightly injured in the angry outbreak in the British-protected Arab island.

The demonstration began Friday when Lloyd arrived on his way to New Delhi after talks with Egyptian Premier Nasser on the Middle East situation.

Crowds stoned, kicked and punched cars in the procession accompanying Lloyd from the airport, and shouted "Go home."

BLOCK ONLY ROAD
As Lloyd started to leave Friday night, 1,000 demonstrators blocked the only road to the airport for four hours until police cleared the way.

Lloyd arrived today in New Delhi to discuss Anglo-Indian differences with Prime Minister Nehru. He is on his way to the Southeast Asian Treaty Organization conference in Karachi.

The main point of difference between Britain and India involves the Western-backed Baghdad Middle East defence pact. India feels the pact brought instability to the area by dividing the Arab states.

Jordan Reaffirms British Pact Despite Firing of Gen. Glubb

AMMAN, Jordan (Reuters)—Jordan's government said today it will stick to its treaty obligations with Britain despite the dismissal of Gen. John Glubb, British commander of the Arab Legion.

A government announcement affirming Jordan will respect its obligations under the 1948 Anglo-Jordanian friendship treaty was issued after Prime Minister Samar Rifaat reported on Glubb's dismissal and those of two other top-ranking British officials at a closed session of Jordan's parliament.

Britain maintains key military bases in Jordan under the 1948 treaty, which also provides for British support of the Arab Legion.

Meanwhile, Defence Minister Faleh Pasha Madadha told crowds of jubilant demonstrators outside government headquarters that persons detained for political reasons would be released.

WILL ACCEPT ARAB AID
He said Jordan was ready to accept financial aid from any Arab state, a step the demonstrators demand to free the country from British influence resulting from heavy British financial help.

King Hussein, who presented himself before the general left, told his people that the "necessary measures" were taken for the sake of the army and the country.

Fishing Industry Occupies Members

(From Times-News Services)

Renewed demand for extension of Canada's sovereignty over the territorial waters on its seaboard was heard Friday.

Members from east and west coast riding, advocated various forms of action concerning the Canada-controlled waters, which now extend three miles, from shore.

Thomas Barnett (CCF, Co-mox-Alberni) said Canada should seek international agreement on a 12-mile limit and rights over all waters inside lines drawn between this country's coastal headlands. It was time Canada spoke up more firmly on the question.

Contravention of Pact Charged

In another aspect of the fishery in offshore waters, Fisheries Minister Sinclair said Canada has asked the international Pacific salmon commission to reconsider a recommendation that all fishing be stopped "outside" Canadian waters on the salmon rounding Vancouver Island.

Mr. Sinclair said he has written the Canada-U.S. commission that its proposal is a contravention of the 1937 treaty setting up the commission.

He has asked he said whether the same conservation results could not be obtained without completely closing off an important Canadian fishing area.

George C. Nowlan (PC-Digby-Annapolis-Kings) said the federal government should spend more money on marketing. He urged especially the cultivation of the Caribbean area and South America, until recent years the traditional big outlets for Atlantic cured fish.

$25 Million a Year Industry

Dealing with British Columbia's salmon fishery, Mr. Sinclair said every non-salmon stream in B.C. should be developed for electricity before the salmon-rich Fraser River, which also has a big hydro-electric potential.

The Fraser sockeye catch of $25,000,000 a year was the most important single fishery in Canada and the world's foremost sockeye business. The present annual income would be doubled in the foreseeable future.

Persons connected with the salmon trade were alarmed at the fact the Fraser was being eyed for hydro output. Power dams would cut heavily into the upriver spawning run and the seaward migration of young fish.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Esquimalt-Saanich) said the power-versus-fish problem on the river overshadows all others in B.C. A very small proportion of B.C.'s hydro potential was being used while many industries were crying out for more electric power.

He called for an active and vigorous program to build diversers and fishways so that fish moving up such rivers as the Fraser can by-pass power sites.

Mr. Barnett said the federal government should take action to preserve the salmon-spawning areas of B.C.

He also asked the fisheries minister to use his influence to have fishermen brought under

Ultimatum Charge Denied by Ash

Reeve Arthur Ash denied today Saanich council has handed a wage ultimatum to 130 municipal employees.

The reeve was replying to a charge made by Percy Rayment, business representative for the Saanich Municipal Employees' Association, who said council is trying to force the union to accept a council wage offer.

Council Monday threatened to withdraw the offer of 2½ per cent wage boost for 1956, and 1½ for next year, if the union did not accept the wage formula by March 9.

"As far as I am concerned," said the reeve, "I do not consider the council issued an ultimatum to the employees."

The word ultimatum was not used, and there was no thought in any councillor's mind, I am sure, of issuing one," said the reeve. "We cannot be held responsible for any interpretation the press may feel disposed to place on our feelings."

Pipeline Deal 'Tragic Blunder' Says Coldwell

Starve Canadian Industry of Power

OTTAWA (BUP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell Friday night urged all Canadians to stop the government from committing "one of the most tragic blunders of our time" on the trans-Canada pipeline.

He said the federal government must change its policy on the pipeline because the present proposals, "will starve Canadian industry of the power it needs and feed it instead to American industry."

Coldwell, speaking on the CBC's cross-Canada free time political broadcast "nation's business," added:

"We cannot afford to wait upon the decision of a United States commission. We should not delay this pipeline as we did the St. Lawrence seaway. Let us proceed with it now under public ownership."

Coldwell said Canada would lose $100,000,000 over 25 years if the Tennessee Gas Transmission company got gas from the pipeline for 20 cents or 25 cents a thousand cubic feet, following the original contract to sell gas to Northern Natural Gas of Omaha for 30 cents a thousand cubic feet.

"The loss in this one detail alone climbs to $200,000,000 if the American company takes its full option," the socialist leader added.

He said that the present project was "designed by two or three rich United States corporations so as to get a stranglehold on Canada's natural gas resources for their own profit."

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By AB KENT and IRVING STRICKLAND

Do you like the bright colors and multitudes of modern automobiles?

Willis Lee, 709 Daffodil, meat cutter: "Yes, I like them. They are distinctive and make a car stand out better than they used to. I have a two-toned blue car myself."

Lee

Florence McDonald, 245 Russell, clerk: "Yes, they are pretty. You can get all kinds of colors now, which will make the roads a lot less drab than they used to look."

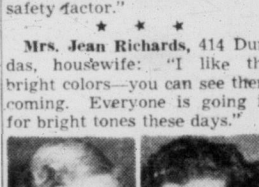

Stan Stewart, 1897 Foul Bay, clerk: "They make a car look new and streamlined—more attractive. I would like to have a brighter model myself."

Stewart

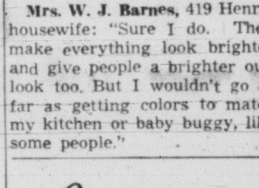

Archie Smith, 492 Esquimalt Road, confectioner: "Oh, yes. I've got one—a 1955 V-8 Pontiac. The new tones and brighter colors are a lot smarter. A few years ago, cars were all alike. Today they are more noticeable on the highway, which is a good safety factor."

Mrs. Jean Richards, 414 Dundas, housewife: "I like the bright colors—you can see them coming. Everyone is going in for bright tones these days."

Richards

Mrs. W. J. Barnes, 419 Henry, housewife: "Sure I do. They make everything look brighter and give people a brighter outlook too. But I wouldn't go as far as getting colors to match my kitchen or baby buggy, like some people."

New Hearing Ordered For Zoning Law

Council Finishes Marathon Review

Victorians will get one more chance to give their opinions of the city's new zoning by-law.

After five years of controversy, city council Friday morning completed a clause by clause study of the 141-page by-law, and decided to hold a public hearing soon.

Date of the hearing will be decided by council Thursday.

The clause-by-clause study had been demanded by Ald. Robert Macmillan to ensure council knew all ramifications of the by-law before its completion. Ironically, the alderman who made the prolonged study necessary was absent from city hall on a European holiday during the sessions.

MAYOR PLEASED

"I am pleased with the co-operation and progress by council," the mayor said as the long task ended.

"We've questioned several items and Town Planning Commission will study them and report back. The commission has done an excellent job of the study."

He said that some "bugs" might appear following the public hearing but thought council would make adjustments before final passing. The by-law has already had two readings.

The new zoning scheme has been attacked by several groups in the last year, including city architects and builders. It is expected more representations will be made at the final hearing.

1929 LAW

The by-law streamlines regulations which have been in effect since 1929. Some of its main features make it mandatory for newly constructed business blocks to provide ample off-street parking and provide for deeper setbacks from building lines to preserve the beauty of the city.

Cop Killer Suspect Will Face Trial

VANCOUVER (CP)—Donald James Carey, 27, Friday was committed for trial on a charge of murder in connection with the Dec. 7 gun-slaying of police constable Gordon Sinclair, 41-year-old father of three.

Carey was committed after a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Gordon Scott. The accused's common law wife, Mrs. Noreen Carey, was the chief witness Friday.

Joseph Gordon, 34, was committed on the same charge at an earlier hearing.

Const. Sinclair was shot to death while answering a routine prowler call to the semi-industrial area underneath the Granville Street bridge. One bullet struck him in the head, another in the back. His body was found partially in his one-man patrol car.

Carey, arrested in Toronto two weeks ago, was first sought only as a material witness.

Mrs. Carey told the crowded courtroom Gordon came to the Carey home about 6 p.m. the night of the murder.

After a while, she said, Gordon, Carey, and herself and her four-month-old baby went for a drive. They met Bob Smith, a mutual friend, and then "drove around" for a while.

She said they finally stopped and parked in an alley only a short distance from the street where Const. Sinclair was killed.

Her evidence indicated a burglary was planned, possibly at a fuel company office accessible from the alley.

She said Smith wanted to drive away a short time later because he thought he heard shots. Smith moved the car about half a block and then Carey and Gordon jumped in.

After the two men jumped in, Smith started to drive away at a high speed, Mrs. Carey said. "I said, 'You'd better slow down... there's a police car behind us.'"

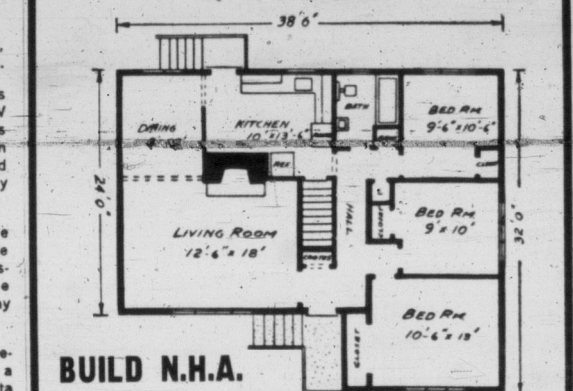

"That's when Joe said: 'Let me out. I shot the guy.'"

No date has been set for his trial.

The Old Age Pension

MOST PEOPLE, WE BELIEVE, will sympathize with the Legislature's desire to improve the lot of the old age pensioners. But it is unlikely that Parliament will increase their pensions at the present time, as the Legislature proposes. For even an increase of, say, $10 a month represents a huge sum in the national budget, and the national budget will soon be strained if the proposed national hospital insurance scheme goes into effect.

British Columbians, as represented by the Legislature, are evidently willing to pay more taxes to benefit the pensioners. For assuredly, as Mr. Laing observes, any rise in the pension must involve taxation, in British Columbia as elsewhere.

Whenever the Federal Government spends a dollar it collects part of that dollar in British Columbia. Since the average income of British Columbia and Ontario is the highest in the nation, the taxpayers of these two provinces pay proportionately more of any federal expenditure than the other provinces.

Every item of cost apparently handed on to Ottawa is charged back to us as federal taxpayers. The Provincial Government may escape the onus of collecting it. The taxpayer cannot escape it.

British Columbia may be willing to assume new costs through the federal treasury but it does not follow that the other provinces are willing. It seems altogether probable, on the contrary, that most provinces—facing the new costs of hospitalization—will oppose any further expansion of federal welfare services at present.

If British Columbia wishes to raise old age pensions it can do so out of its own budget. It has recently granted such an increase but, in the unanimous judgment of the Legislature, this increase is inadequate. Mr. Bennett therefore proposes to ask Ottawa for another increase as if the people of this province would not have to pay it.

If he thinks this expenditure necessary, he should ask the Legislature to increase again the provincial "bonus" now being paid. This would cost us no more in the end than a higher federal scale.

The pensioner's problem, however, is not confined to the size of his pension cheque. He is equally concerned with the value of the cheque—the amount of goods it will buy.

As a result of the inflationary policies followed in Canada and other countries during the last ten years, the value of the pension, like every other form of income, has shrunk to half its former size. It can shrink still more if inflationary pressures, now appearing in Canada, are allowed to get out of control.

One of the largest inflationary pressures is government spending, which is nothing but a demand for goods in competition with the private purchaser. All our governments are constantly raising their expenditures and helping to stimulate inflation but none is spending so heavily as the Government of British Columbia.

As Mr. H. R. MacMillan remarked not long ago, the Bennett Government's expenditures are so large that they threaten to absorb the materials and manpower needed by private industry for its expansion.

The Government's revenues are also so large that they could provide some further aid for the old age pensioners if a relatively small sum were taken from our current road program or from the huge overhead costs of administration.

This Mr. Bennett appears unwilling to do. He demands more aid for pensioners so long as Ottawa pays the bill, but he never mentions the mathematical fact that the bill comes back, in the form of federal taxes, to the people of British Columbia.

The Tupper Report

MR. TUPPER'S REPORT ON the Vancouver police department makes a few clear findings but, perhaps unavoidably, leaves a wide area of doubt and suspicion in the public mind.

This is not surprising when Mr. Tupper refused to conduct his inquiry by the methods of a court, admitted hearsay almost without limit and allowed many innocent persons to be smeared. Mr. Tupper has found them innocent and vindicated them in his report but some of the mud cast so recklessly during the investigation will stick.

The royal commissioner has found certain persons guilty of graft. The matter obviously cannot be allowed to stand there. As chief law officer of the Crown Attorney-General Bonner must now decide whether prosecutions should be launched and in what form.

It should be remembered that Mr.

Tupper's findings have no force in law. Men whom he has found guilty are innocent in law until they have been tried. Assuredly they should be tried, for the crimes alleged against them are of the most serious nature. They involve not only individuals but the honesty of Vancouver's civic government.

Mr. Bonner has submitted all these matters to a committee of lawyers for consideration. Their study of the Tupper report—especially when Mr. Bonner's time is fully occupied these days on other affairs—may be useful, but in the end the full responsibility for the next step rests with the attorney-general.

The public of Vancouver and all British Columbia will expect Mr. Bonner to act promptly and decisively to clear up a scandal which has humiliated our largest city and undermined respect for its institutions.

Helping Them Back to Citizenship

SOME REMARKABLE AND ENCOURAGING statistics have been made public by the John Howard Society of Vancouver Island at its annual meeting here.

According to the president, Mr. Hugh Botterell, the organization has been successful during the year just past in helping to rehabilitate more than half the people who have come to it at the close of jail and prison terms.

Such statistics must, of course, be qualified. In the course of a single year it is scarcely possible to determine whether or not people who have been released will stay out of trouble.

At the same time, Mr. Botterell has excellent reasons to view the 1935 work with satisfaction.

He has been high in his praise of the Victoria concerns which have provided work for these people—work which is probably the basis of successful attempts at rehabilitation. The contribution of employers will be widely acknowledged. At the same time, the Society with which personnel managers have given such close co-operation deserves its own special measure of tribute. An organization here is achieving gratifying results in a field which is not the most promising.

Meeting With Neighbors

Nashville Banner

THE closest neighbors we have as a nation, of course, are Canada and Mexico, the friendliest of powers on the north and the south. Unique to the situation of neighboring countries anywhere in the world is the fact that along our thousands of miles of common border is not a fortification or a gun. It speaks good will. We are proud of it.

These are the neighbors whose chief executives President Eisenhower has invited to meet with him in March. The United States will welcome Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent of Canada, and President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico. As the heads of state of three great countries, they will have much to talk about.

In truth, these nations are geographically and economically linked; the ties are growing stronger year by year and never have been more important in the interest of mutual security and mutual prosperity.

The Eisenhower administration is not neglecting this hemisphere as a vital area within the domain of foreign policy; one to be cultivated—to be improved, to the advantage of all concerned. The nations concerned are those comprising the Western Hemisphere; the AMERICAS, North, Central and South.

It is to the continuing credit of these Americas and their constituents that we are good neighbors—and that increasingly we are working at that. A big factor in that is the part private enterprise is playing in these economic developments. That depends on CONFIDENCE, and confidence in turn depends on the encouragement it finds in friendly treatment by the respective governments.

Free enterprise has built the United States of America. It now is beginning to be accepted as the great motive power for economic progress in the Latin Americas. That in itself is a great ad-

SAFE HOMES

With reference to your recent article regarding the licensing of boarding homes in the city of Victoria, this association believes that the intent of the city by-law is to protect the residents and operators of these homes.

All our members hold welfare institution licences and have complied with these or similar regulations. We feel that, if anything, the current regulations could be more stringent, for we realize that, in the conversion of older buildings, it is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to make them absolutely fireproof.

We are aware that there are a number of homes operating in the Greater Victoria area which do not require welfare institution licences because they do not admit pensioners. As a result, we feel that some pensioners, needing special care, enjoy some protection, many private citizens do not. Hence we hope that civic officials will continue to enforce the current regulations.

This association is prepared to support any enforcement which will protect the safety of senior citizens in the boarding homes.

HOSPITALS AND SERVICE FAMILIES

Federal Defence Minister Ralph Campney takes a moment from his arduous duties to comment on the "discriminatory treatment" accorded the armed forces and their families under the B.C. Hospital Insurance Act.

The people of B.C. have nothing but respect and admiration for members of the forces and their families, but in view of the enormous taxes we pay for national defence, we should hardly be expected to provide instant free hospitalization for transient members. If for them, why not for others? The least contribution to be expected is the 2 per cent sales tax for the hospital service for one year. There is no province in Canada which equals B.C. in generosity to the underprivileged and the unfortunate and the people gladly concur with their government in this policy.

Surely Mr. Campney does not expect us to classify the armed forces of the Crown and their families in this category? Perhaps we should remind him that, as less than 14 cents of the defence dollar we pay is spent in B.C., he should have plenty left to provide decent health security for them without cadging for charity from us.

NORTH SAANICH FIRE DISTRICT

The Sidney and North Saanich Chamber of Commerce recently passed a resolution calling for the establishment in North Saanich of a fire district which would have the legal right to levy taxes on property owners for the purpose of providing funds for the Sidney volunteer fire brigade.

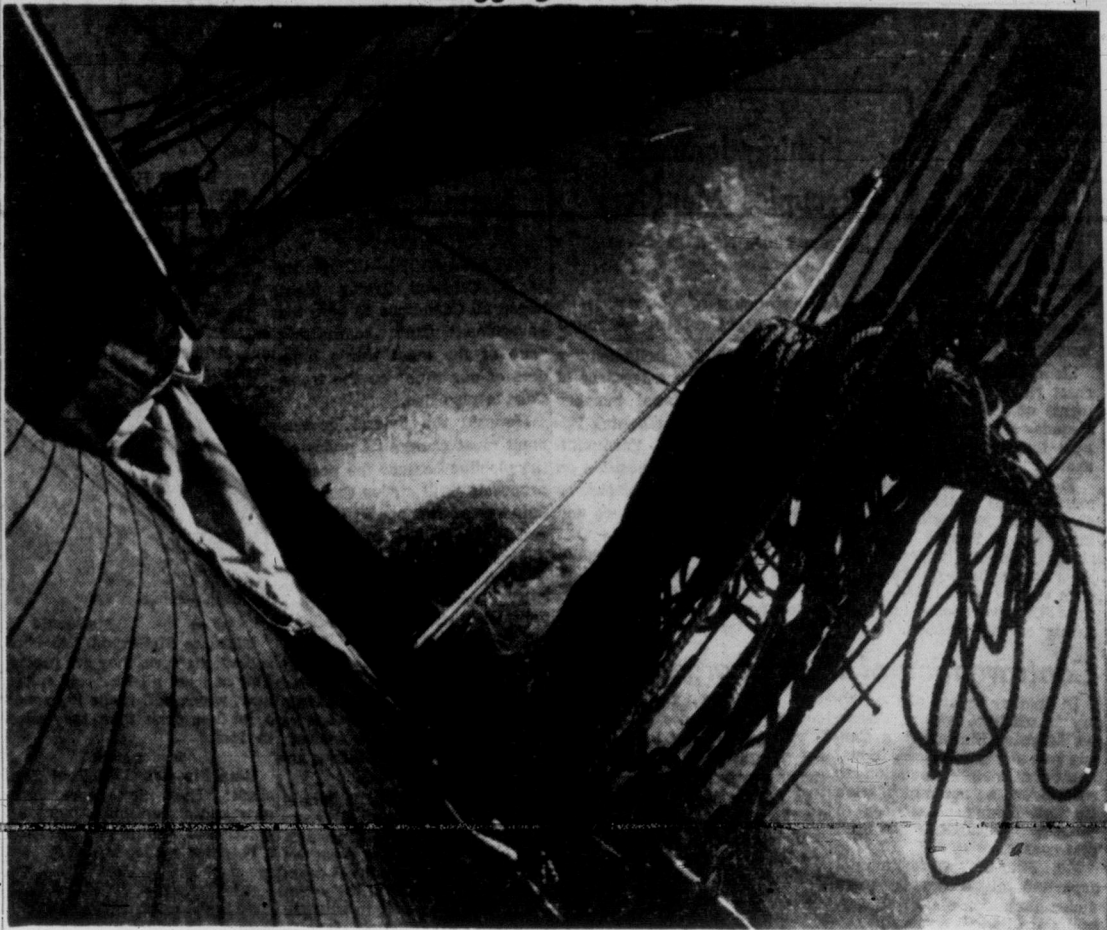

I understand that such a body could be formed only after a favorable petition had been signed by not less than 70 per cent of the property owners in the district, and I urge property owners to give the matter the most careful consideration before signing a petition which would commit them irrevocably to the creation of another taxing authority in North Saanich, for, be it clearly understood, once this step has been taken there will be no going back.

We are told that a tax of one mill on present assessments will provide sufficient money for the needs of the Sidney fire brigade. I do not question the good faith of those who make this statement. One mill may be sufficient for the first year. However in the course of a fairly long life, I cannot recall a single instance when, once a taxing authority had been created, its taxes did not increase progressively over the years.

As a first attempt at raising money, I propose that in each district within the same boundaries as those of a property owners' association a committee be formed which will charge itself with the duty of obtaining from each property owner a pledge of an annual subscription and of collecting the amounts so pledged. I feel sure that when property owners clearly understand the alternative which is being proposed, the money will be readily forthcoming.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

By GUS SIVERTZ

Taught to the Tune of the Hickory Stick

LOOKING backward over a span of more than half a century it seems to me that the teachers in Victoria's old wooden elementary schools must have been outstanding indeed.

It is quite possible that they were the greatest influence in our lives and it is fortunate that so many of them—and they were all women—were apparently dedicated to their responsibilities. In fact, they must have been dedicated or they would never have deliberately selected a career so ill-paid and so difficult.

My school was the old Spring Ridge School at Chambers and Gladstone, and I can still hear the screech of the old Fernwood streetcars on their fixed axes as they ground protestingly around the sharp turn before bouncing down the last stretch to the terminal at Billy Rennie's bakery.

AT MISS RUSSELL'S KNEE

Miss Russell was principal and teacher of the "baby class". She seemed rather a stern, middle-aged spinster with a perennially red nose which puzzled us a little bit. But she was a kindly woman and a good beginner's teacher.

I suppose that modern scientific teaching would hold her methods up to scorn but she taught us the ABCs and a lot of little songs like "Farmer Jones's Lantern," which was all about the moon.

Miss Russell also organized and kept alive a very active Mothers' Club—fore-runner of the Parent-Teacher organization of today—which among other activities, collected (donated really) all sorts of food gifts for the orphanage. I could never understand why children who lived in the fine big, brick building at the top of Cook Street should need gifts of hams, rolled oats, jams and jellies, candies and fruits from us.

Our next teacher was Miss Blackburn whom we all thought very beautiful indeed. And I think she must have been because after all these years I can remember only a loveliness of face and a sweetness of manner that captivated her classes. There never was any problem of discipline in Miss Blackburn's classes. I wonder how she disposed of the many apples, sticky from our grubby fingers, that we laid as tribute on her desk.

In charge of the next class was Ethel Luxton Brown. I never think of her in any other way—just as Ethel Luxton Brown.

VITALITY

It was easy to remember her for she had a mass of brown hair, a smooth olive skin and a small, compact and perfectly proportioned figure. But most of all one remembers her simply terrific vitality which we seemed to feel in the classroom like the charged atmosphere before a thunderstorm.

And she wasn't any softer either; she had a wide leather strap and, for special cases, a slender whip. I got the strap only once in her room—for eating an apple under shelter of my desk, I think. The strapping was administered in the teachers' cloakroom and it was pretty hard to hold back the tears as the leather came down 12 times on each small, moist palm. And when we came back to the room all the class would look intently to see if you had "bawled."

Once she whipped George Wilson, who seemed to us small ones a Big Boy, and as the whipping was in the classroom we sat in fascinated silence, enthralled by the spectacle of Miss Brown's hair pins flying loose until her piled hair just fell about her shoulders, ending the whipping. George never even whimpered and remained one of her most unqualified worshippers—which seems sort of at variance with modern ideas of maintaining classroom discipline.

AND KIND HEART

Her quickflaring temper failed entirely to disguise to us her kind heart and extraordinary thoughtfulness of us all. In the spring Miss Brown would give up her Saturdays quite often to take us all—30-odd young savages—for wonderful organized hikes out to Cedar Hill and Mount Tolmie.

Our last teacher in that little school—the last before we went up to old Boys' Central—Miss Christie (Carrie C. Christie) was one of those exemplary teachers with whom one really begins to learn. And she was also a good disciplinarian.

When Ike Said Yes

BY JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP, From Washington

THE press conference at which President first revealed his decision to run again was certainly the greatest political occasion, the most anxiously awaited, moment, that this country has known for a very long time.

In American politics, the great occasions and vivid moments have a way of being a bit flat, for we have always stuck to the republican tradition of the founding fathers, who had a hearty distaste for drama, ceremonial and grandeur in all forms.

Old John Adams tried to get the first Congress to give the President the legal title of "Supreme Mightiness"; but Adams was fortunately voted down by a heavy majority. And that, you might say, was the end of that.

The great occasion in the old State Department Treaty Room was a bit flat too, except that it provided the answer the world had been waiting for. Nothing, really, could have been more homely and unexcited than the give-and-take between the pink-faced, smiling, relaxed President and the great crowd of reporters who had come to hear the long-awaited word. Yet it was an occasion worth commemorating, all the same.

SPRINGY STEP

The President's advance guard was his television advisor, Robert Montgomery, who inspected the arrangements with an air of self-conscious solemnity. Then, in a deep hush, Dwight D. Eisenhower strode rapidly through the door, and walked, with a quick, springy, self-confident step, to the big desk that he always stands behind at his press conferences.

He was smiling when he entered, and all those in the room rose in respect. His broad grin, which one felt betokened relief at a hard decision boldly taken, lasted until everyone was in his seat again, and the time came to open the proceedings.

Those in the gallery could read the giant-sized type of the memorandum in his hand. "Red, Cross, Italians, farm, upper Colorado," and then, doubly underlined, "personal." With an obvious, boyish pleasure in keeping everyone on tenterhooks, he disposed of the first four topics on the memorandum, dealing with each of them gracefully, or eloquently, or forcefully as the occasion demanded. Finally, looking suddenly more serious, he came to the "personal" topic.

But was he not still enjoying the breathless suspense? At any rate, he backed into his great subject with a long explanation of his motives for making his main announcement in a television broadcast. At length he said, with obvious feeling, that he could not go before the Republican convention unless the delegates fully understood his personal situation.

POSITIVE AND AFFIRMATIVE

Then, and only then, there was a sudden, audible intake of breath all over the room, indicating that all those present at last felt certain of the answer. And the President's only direct statement of intentions, that his "answer would be positive and affirmative" was the very last sentence he uttered before the questioning began.

On the surface, the ensuing question period was so ostentatiously underplayed that it was almost uninteresting. There were human moments, to be sure. Once the President was asked whom he had consulted about his decision; and he answered briskly that he had talked with everyone he thought was his friend and—brief pause—some he was not so sure of; and this sent a ripple of laughter through the room.

He made them laugh too with his last rueful remark that he would not release the transcript until Jim Haggerty had corrected it, because his grammar often needed correction. But such moments as these are press conference commonplace, unvaryingly and spontaneously generated by Eisenhower's rich, genial humanity of spirit.

There was an instant, also, of serious sentiment, another Eisenhower speciality, when he said very earnestly that his wife and family would support his decision. And there was even an instant of quite visible irritation, still another Eisenhower speciality, when a question came from a reporter whose lecturing manner had annoyed the President, and the well-known tell-tale flush crept up over the high Eisenhower forehead. As it unfolded, in truth, the historic press conference seemed disappointingly like all the other, historic press conferences. But as one thought about it later, situating what was said in its vast, far-reaching context, one realized that the President had thrice revealed himself in a rather special and meaningful manner.

Once he branched into a little lecture on the deep importance of the American two party system, stabbing with his forefinger and leaning forward, as he does when he wishes to carry conviction. Once he said, and plainly meant it, that he did not mind if his enemies thought him stupid, but he hoped at least they would agree that he was honest.

And on two different occasions, standing up a little straighter and speaking a little more forcefully both times, he declared that his campaign strategy would be to stand on his record; that his record, in fact, would be his campaign. When he said that, one heard the pride in his voice. (New York Herald Tribune Inc.)

The High Court of Parliament

FOREGOING sleep, to which I am devoted, I attended the other night a sitting of what, within its constitutional limitations, is the highest Court of all in the province. Blackstone describes the High Court of Parliament as "the highest Court in the Kingdom, not only for making but also for the execution of laws, by the trial of great and enormous offenders... in the method of parliamentary impeachment." It is thus a criminal Court, and one of very wide, ancient, and in a province, somewhat uncertain powers. A person who offends or usurps a privilege of the House may find himself hustled off to some deep dungeon by the Sergeant-at-Arms; and the House may take some time to get around to deciding what's to be done with him. I do not know what provision Mr. Speaker here has made for the reception of offenders; but I have no doubt he, like all good Speakers, jealous of the powers and privileges of his Parliament, had made suitably uncomfortable arrangements. Perhaps one would be chained to the wall in the furnace room, or locked up in the stacks of the Legislative Library.

But, speculation as to Mr. Speaker's calaboose is somewhat academic: there is only one way to find out for sure what he can do, and I hesitate to recommend uncertain tortures to law-abiding citizens. Particularly after prorogation.

Sitting as I was in the Gallery far into the morning, I could not help at times contrasting the raging storm below me with the awesome dignity of a Legislature united as the highest Court in the Kingdom. It was quite impossible, while watching an able and angry Opposition belabor the Government most mercilessly, to visualize the combats all getting together and exercising a judicial function "so transcendent and absolute, that it cannot be confined either for causes or persons, within any bounds." How could such a factious and bad tempered body be vested with the power to do things that "no authority on earth can undo"? To foreigners and others unfamiliar with the British tradition of government, it must appear very strange that absolute despotic power and high judicial function are both exercised by a roomful of turbulent tubthumpers; but curiously enough, legislatures always seem to manage to do both well enough, and can switch from one aspect to another as fast as a chameleon when the need arises. But you'd never have thought so around midnight last Thursday.

Mr. Justice Blackstone, like the wise eighteenth century judge he was, appears rather nervous of the Parliament rabble possessing such enormous powers. He says "that it is a matter most essential to the liberties of this Kingdom, that such Members be delegated for this important trust as are eminent for their probity, their fortitude and their knowledge." Minimum requirements, one would think, but these days they are met with rather infrequently. How he welcomed attempts to restrain the privileges and powers of Parliament! When Lord Chief Justice Holt ruled that Parliament's authority was bound by the laws of the land, Blackstone admires "the manly tone" of "this satisfactory opinion" of the extent of legislative privileges and immunities.

But even though the Chief Justice's dictum is now generally regarded as law, be careful in your dealings with the High Court over the Bay. On no account assault, insult, libel, obstruct, threaten, intimidate, prevaricate, to libel, present forged documents to, cause the arrest of or bring an action against, a Member. The whole lot will bury their hatchets, and rise up and clobber you, and serve you right.

UN CORRESPONDENT

Disarmament Talks

UNITED NATIONS—Once again, the disarmament talks are going to be held in London starting probably in about a week's time. They should open to a Goddamning overture of atomic explosions as the United States begins its latest nuclear tests in the Pacific proving grounds. Such a paradox as this, which delights the cynics here, is particularly unfortunate this year as the United Nations disarmament sub-committee, which holds these disarmament talks is going to take up the Indian plea to stop A-bomb and H-bomb tests. It was able to shelve this last year, but it will not be able to do so this year, for the pressure of public opinion is much greater, especially since the Vatican joined in the request that nuclear explosions be ended.

STURTSBERG

The Pope's moving appeal last Christmas is considered to be a sign that the vast majority of the world's people wants to see a halt called to these dangerous experiments. However, democracy does not always work on the international scene, and, as an Indian delegate said, rather sadly, "what's the use of a majority if the British and American governments refuse to agree."

Only one member of the disarmament sub-committee, which consists of the Big Four and Canada, is in favor, and has announced itself in favor of banning atomic explosions: the Soviet Union. This, it seems to me, is a very serious situation.

Without a doubt, the Russians are doing this for ulterior motives, but we should never allow them to become the sole proponents of a popular and moral cause, as they have done in this case. Just why should Great Britain and the United States be opposed to stopping these tests?—and, by the way, when an atomic explosion occurs anywhere in the world, it can be detected anywhere else, so that this is one disarmament proposal which does not require control measures.

The British say that they don't want to stop these experiments, until they have tested their own hydrogen bomb which they are planning to do this year; they want to be a hydrogen power too. Such an argument is logical enough but it will not go over in Asia where Great Britain is regarded as such a close ally of the United States as to have access to the super-weapon.

Apparently, the Americans are insisting on continuing their tests in the South Sea Islands because they want to explode an H-bomb in the air as the Russians did recently. They exploded their last bomb from a tower—this was the one which caused all the trouble in the spring of 1954, its fall-out injuring Japanese fishermen many miles away. At least, it is taken for granted that it was a bomb which was exploded at Eniwetok, although it was described simply as a "thermonuclear device." The Atomic Energy Agency in the United States has never said that it has exploded a hydrogen bomb, as the Russians have officially claimed to have done. This has led to whispers in the corridors here that the reason why the Americans are against stopping these nuclear experiments is because they have not yet exploded a hydrogen bomb.

The experts consider this absurd; they are sure that the United States has the hydrogen bomb—in fact, they call the Eniwetok explosion a fission-fusion explosion which would indicate that it was an H-bomb with a uranium case.

Ladysmith Studying Saltair Water Plan

LADYSMITH—City council will study a proposal by Saltair Water District to construct its own reservoir south of the main city reservoir, thus utilizing overflow water from the city system.

Trustees of the Saltair district told the council this week there is "reasonable assurance" that funds can be obtained for construction of the system. Storage would be provided for 4,000,000 gallons.

It is believed waste water occurs in more than sufficient volume to supply Saltair's needs during the wet months, but it is not expected to be sufficient in the dry period of the year.

The board estimates that the reservoir would carry the system for 40 to 50 days, but as the dry periods can last as long as 100 days some supplementary source of supply would be required. To provide this supply, the board proposes to extend the intake pipe in Stocking Lake into deeper water to draw water from below the city's present intake level. The board also proposes to seal up any leaks in the dam which can be located.

Saltair would pay the cost of this work, but as the city would retain full ownership of Stocking Lake, the city would be expected to reimburse Saltair in water on the basis of rates which would be agreed upon.

New Forest Fire

THE COWICHAN LEADER—The point of conflict is the point of growth. Resignation of the Hon. R. E. Somers, minister of lands and forests, this week serves to underline this truism.

Some will say that the minister should have had more stomach for a fight against his accusers; others that he took the only course open to him. What is the public to think, apart from the fact that the questionable pastime of name-calling in politics shows no signs of losing its popularity?

The resignation has cast a shadow over an industry, which ranks among the richest on the face of this globe, at a time when that industry is undergoing its greatest period of change.

On what does the ex-minister base his charges that a group or groups in this province are seeking to dilute all forest management licence legislation?

This particular legislation has won almost unqualified endorsement, in principle, from every company and organization which has so far presented a brief to the Sloan Inquiry. This endorsement comes from the "have nots" as well as the "haves." The minister himself stated unequivocally only recently that unless overcutting in the Douglas fir region was curtailed, small ghost towns would appear in the not too distant future.

If anything, the public suffers from a lack of information about licences. Questions raised concerning them should be answered in good faith, by both industry and government.

Eliminate Highway Eyesores

PARKSVILLE-QUALICUM BEACH PROGRESS—For the past few years, many Vancouver Island publications, including The Progress, have been endeavoring to bring unsightly garbage dumps along our highways to the attention of the government. Consequently, we were pleased to note in reports of proceedings of the Provincial Legislature at Victoria that an Act had been introduced to curtail dumping of garbage on the sidewalks of this province.

Unanimous approval was given to the Bill in principle. The Parksville-Qualicum Beach district has more than its share of these unsightly tin-can heaps, and it is disgusting to note that several new garbage piles have been established during the past year. They are an eyesore to tourists and other motorists using our highways.

It is to be hoped that authorized garbage dumps will be established in all unorganized districts, so that never again will there be the slightest excuse for indiscriminate refuse disposal.

A. Bennett Heads Ambulance Group

CHEMAINUS—Andy Bennett was re-elected president of the Chemsinus and District Ambulance Society at the annual meeting, and Miss June Dwyer was named secretary-treasurer. Directors are J. Syme, Jr., J. Syme, Sr., Stan F. Best, George Hemmingsen and Raymond Millard.

Financial statement showed a bank balance of $1,054. During the period from Jan. 31 last year to Feb. 1 this year, the ambulance made a total of 65 calls.

Duncan Hospital Notes Busy Year

Deficit of $5,294 Reported; Expenditures for Year $490,820

DUNCAN — King's Daughters' Hospital here had 37,102 patient days in 1955, the administration reported at the annual meeting of the Hospital Association Friday night.

Patients under care during the year totalled 4,096, and there were 526 new-born babies, a record for this hospital. Out-patients totalled 2,964.

During 1955—the hospital handled 1,269 medical and 1,900 surgical patients. In addition there were 637 obstetrical cases and 290 unclassified. The hospital had a total operating expenditure of $490,820 for the year and an operating deficit of $5,294. There were 553 major and 1,480 minor operations performed during the year.

Average occupancy of adults and children was 82.5 per cent, and the administrator reported occupancy in the children's ward during April was 112 per cent. Highest occupancy in the men's ward was 98.6 per cent during January. Average stay in hospital was 8.3 days for adults and children, and 6.2 days for new-born. The hospital reported 11 new-born deaths and 65 deaths among adult and children patients for the 12 months. The staff numbered 123 at the close of the year.

FREE BLOOD TRANSFUSIONS for nearly a MILLION CANADIANS

Since this peace-time Red Cross service was inaugurated, more than 950,000 Canadians have received free blood transfusions.

How many lives, homes and heartbreaks have been saved through this service cannot be calculated. Nor can it be measured in dollars. Yet, while Red Cross blood donors ask neither pay nor recognition...

it does cost money to maintain blood donor clinics and depots, to process, refrigerate and ship the whole blood and blood products: : and dollars are needed.

Industrials Hit Records On Canadian Markets

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Times Business Editor

Industrial stocks traded on the Toronto, Montreal and New York Exchanges bounded to record highs after President Eisenhower announced he would seek a second term.

The advance on Canadian markets was actually more pronounced than at New York, with an advance on the week of 10.84 index points, one of the best on record. New York, on the other hand posted a small decline on "decision day" following a brief flood of buying.

Enthusiasm for speculative mining issues dwindled on Canadian exchanges after record turnovers a week earlier. Medium-priced products came in for strong demand late in the week and some sharp gains were recorded.

Uranium received a mild boost from Canadian government's decision to extend by six months, to Sept. 30, 1957, the start-of-production deadline for companies seeking sales contracts.

Western oils marked up a strong advance late in the week, reflecting the week-long demand for industrial oils stocks.

Index gains at Toronto: Western oils 2.87 to 131.37, base metals 2.43 to 229.31, industrials 10.84 to 459.69.

ISLAND COPPER

The recent copper boom has focussed attention on British Columbia's Highland Valley, a few miles southeast of Ashcroft, where many companies are carrying out extensive exploration programs.

And on Vancouver Island the copper fever is growing with the development of fair-sized reserves by several companies.

Some say Vancouver Island properties show little promise of depth or length, but this view is not shared by O. G. MacDonald, president of Cowichan Copper.

GREAT PROMISE

"Such opinions have no basis of fact," he said today. "I believe the future holds great promise."

Ward's automotive reports said production in the U.S. for the first three months of 1956 would total 1,775,800 cars—second only to the record 2,126,895 produced in the roaring first quarter of 1955.

The cutback from last year's sizzling pace is intended to reduce the record stocks of unsold cars in the hands of retail dealers.

IN THE HOUSE with ART STOTT

The End and the Letdown

A few typewriters chattered in the legislative press room Friday night as correspondents finished their wrap-up stories on the session.

There was not the staccato roll of keys on paper as there had been when copy moved in volume. The Legislature had prorogued and the let-down had set in.

Members made casual calls on reporters they have learned to know during the last seven weeks. Post mortems proceeded in corners where newsmen expressed their different views. But the big show was over.

It finished with His Honour the Lieutenant Governor marching slowly down the aisle between members' desks, preceded by his uniformed aides and the acting Sergeant-at-Arms carrying the mace.

For a short while the corridors were thronged with members wishing one another goodbye. The acrimony of the legislative debate lingers on for only a few after the sittings close. Friends mingled with the representatives in a sort of aloha spirit. This was, at least, a farewell to the fourth session of the 24th Legislature.

The most unhappy man in the Parliament Buildings was Tom Uphill, Fernie's veteran labor member and dean of the House. Tom made a ceremony of every prorogation. As the Lieutenant Governor passes from the Hall, it is Mr. Uphill's practice to throw his sessional papers in the air—a reminder of more boisterous prorogations.

Friday night Mr. Uphill was absent. He had attended a Welsh banquet where he was to participate in a toast. The banquet dragged on and Tom arrived at the Buildings after the House had prorogued. His regret centered on his inability to shake the hand of those with whom he has labored.

What Did They Do?

In calmer reflection, as the crowds thinned, you thought of the achievements of the session. The milk bill was important. How it will work, not ever the minister, Mr. Kiernan, is certain.

"This isn't the milk bill to end all milk bills," he had informed the House at one point. Again he mentioned unknown amendments he expected to be introduced next year.

There were other issues of importance. A budget as big as that passed this session is not to be overlooked, nor its implications on efforts British Columbia may make to get more money from Ottawa.

Still there was something unsatisfactory about the session. It started under the cloud of the Sturdy case, which gradually built up to an infinitely more serious affair than a libel action by one man against another. It could have been settled by a royal commission inquiry, but it wasn't.

That leaves doubts in the public mind—a lack of satisfaction on a question which affects their daily bread—the forests from which they draw almost half the wealth produced in this province.

You thought about that—the final effort by Liberal Leader Arthur Laing to secure action on prorogation day and the obduracy with which Premier Bennett had refused to face the issue.

That was a persistent thought as you wound up your sessional reporting. You walked outside and found it still raining.

That reminded you that the second to last motion brought before the House was one by Omineca's Social Credit, Cyril Shelford, who wanted the Legislature to appoint a committee to look into rain-making activities.

And you smiled again at George Gregory's assurance for the Liberals that "We are prepared to do anything at all if it will improve the weather."

Hans Gruber

To preserve a motor-car engine under the most adverse driving conditions—which means slow, short trips around town in cool or cold weather—two things must be kept in mind. Dry friction of metal-to-metal is likely to occur for a short while after starting a cold engine, and sludge and acidic contaminants form in the engine oil if the motor is shut off before full operating temperature has been reached. The temperature gauge will not give realistic information as to full operating temperature—it gives only water temperature reading, which may correctly show "normal" or fully warmed-up after only a few minutes' driving, but the important thing is oil temperature, and it takes many times longer for the oil to reach its proper running temperature than that for water.

RAPID CIRCULATION

Therefore, the thinnest possible oil is advisable; so that it will circulate as quickly as possible from cold through tight-fitting bearing and friction surfaces. Of late, so-called "multi-viscosity" oils have been produced, and they have some highly desirable properties. First of all, they may be used year-round, because they combine the desirable thinness of a No. 10 oil when cold with the strong lubricating body of a No. 30 oil when running at peak temperature. These oils also have a number of additives which make them heavily and desirably detergent—they will keep any sludge and impurities that form in suspension, and will not let these coat the engine parts.

However, it seems that Volkswagen do NOT recommend using these "multi-viscosity" oils in their engines, as the chemical structure of these oils appear to cause premature wear in the valve-train. In such cases, by all means ALWAYS follow the manufacturers' instructions and recommendations. In American engines, however, these oils have proved satisfactory and beneficial.

CHANGE OFTEN

But, whatever oil is used—NEVER race a cold engine, and change oil with greater than usual frequency, never less often than once a month, or every thousand miles, whichever occurs first, and the same goes for chassis lubrication.

Different makes of cars have different safe-guards designed into their engines for long life. The proposed legislation was intended to end "wild-cat" swims The British-built Fords, the across Lake Ontario.

Plymouths, the Oldsmobiles, have chrome-plated oil-control piston rings, which greatly extend cylinder-wall and ring life. All Ford products, from the Ford to the Lincoln, alone have rotating valves, which assure correct and tight valve seating for unusually long periods. This is the reason why valve-trouble is all but unknown with Fords. It costs somewhat more to produce such a valve mechanism, but then the late Ford engines are outstandingly high-quality units throughout, with an uncommonly sturdy "bottom-end" (crankshaft, bearings, etc.)—that is why Ford has begun to call their engines Y-8 instead of the usual V-8. They seem to employ a particularly wide variety of metals in their engines for all the different parts, taking into most careful account the strains and stresses imposed upon different engine parts.

TAKES LONGER

There are advocates of long stationary engine-warmup before driving off. Personally, I do not think this should be overdone. A free-running engine without any load upon it takes much longer to warm up than that of an engine which is under load. Perhaps two minutes of fast idle is quite sufficient for some oil to reach throughout the engine, whereupon it should be driven immediately—but at first slowly. Not over 10 mph in first gear, under 20 in second, and not over 25 in high, for the first two or three miles. Nor should a cold engine be ever allowed to "lug"—change down to second not lower than 15 mph. Do not, while the engine is cold, insist on winning every "stop-light grand prix" race, and that includes cars which have automatic transmissions. Those equipped with the dual-range hydramatic drive, it is advisable, for short town trips, to keep the gear selector in third (or S on Oldsmobiles) rather than fourth, so long as speed does not exceed 35 mph. Once you are on the highway, and the engine has been run for several miles, always use fourth, or, with other cars, and highest available gear ratio.

Ontario Shelves Plan To Control Swims

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government has shelved proposed legislation to control long-distance swimming in Ontario waters.

A government spokesman said it was felt such legislation would accomplish nothing as it could not be enforced.

The proposed legislation was intended to end "wild-cat" swims The British-built Fords, the across Lake Ontario.

Paul Muni Stars in Sunday Play on C-11 at 9 P.M.

To simplify the Times weekly television schedule on the back of this page, all morning programs have been grouped together under the heading "Morning Programs Monday Through Friday."

This was done also to allow the schedule to carry the earliest morning programs which had not been listed previously owing to lack of space. Formerly the morning programs had commenced at 9 "when, in reality, Channel 4 comes on the screen at 7:30."

Otherwise the schedule's format remains unchanged.

SATURDAY HIGHLIGHTS

7.30—Channel 4: A U.S. admiral, Rear-Admiral Redfield Mason, will try for the $50,000 quiz on Big Surprise tonight.

8.00—Channel 4: Perry Como hosts singer Jaye P. Morgan.

Channel 11: All the men are upset in Ralph Kramden's apartment house. A new tenant turns out to be a handsome mambo teacher. An older Jackie Gleason comedy can be found on Channel 2.

Channel 11: Hockey. The Cougars take on Seattle Americans.

8.30—Channel 11: Helen O'Connell and Bob Eberly help Jimmy Dorsey celebrate his birthday on Stage Show. An older Stage Show occupies Channel 2.

9.30—Channel 4: Charles Laughton competes with Jimmy Durante.

Channel 5: Lawrence Welk stars in hour's show at this time.

10.00—Channel 4: George Gobel plays host to Charlton Heston who turns out to be quite a practical joker.

Channels 11 and 12: In Gunsmoke a cowboy shoots an outlaw but claims he shot in self-defence.

10.30—Channel 4: Gisele MacKenzie and Hit Paraders. In addition to the top seven tunes of the week singers and dancers will provide such extras as "Side by Side" and "Who Cares?"

11.00—Channel 11: Movie—Charles Bickford and J. Carol Nash star in the western action, "Thunder Pass." Two brothers join forces to hunt their father's killer.

SUNDAY HIGHLIGHTS

former child star, in the hour-long drama, "Innocent Witness."

3.00—Channel 2: You Are There treats with "Chamberlain at Munich," Sept. 29, 1938.

6.00—Channel 11: You Are There deals with "The Surrender of Corregidor."

7.00—Channel 5: You Asked for It presents escape artist Leo Sullivan who turns out to be a straightjacket.

Channels 11 and 12: Private Secretary Susie (Ann Sothern) would reunite two brothers who have been separated 20 years—only to discover they have no use for one another.

7.30—Channel 4: Frontier's drama is called "The Assassin" wherein an innocent man is hanged.

Channel 5: Famous Film Festival shows the first of two parts of the English motion picture, "Caesar and Cleopatra," by George Bernard Shaw.

8.00—Channel 11: Ed Sullivan hosts winners of a national magazine's motion picture awards, including James Cagney, Jack Lemmon, Gregory Peck, Susan Hayward and so on. An older Sullivan show can be picked up on Channel 2.

Channel 4: Comedy Hour sees Gale Storm heading a cast of funny persons, including Jonathan Winters and Pat Sheehan.

9.00—Channel 4: Tom ("Seven-Year Itch") Ewell stars in Alcoa Hour's "Man on Fire" wherein a successful business man agrees to divorce his wife on the condition that he retains custody of his son.

Channel 11: Paul Muni is seen in GE Theatre's "A Letter from the Queen." This is the Sinclair Lewis tale about former Sen. Ryder, now in his 90s, whose only prized possession of a long life is a letter written to him by Queen Victoria. An ambitious young historian tries to take it from him.

Hospital Has Surplus

9.30—Channel 11: Alfred Hitchcock's suspense drama is called "Back for Christmas," wherein a husband believes that the murder of his wife is the "perfect crime."

10.00—Channel 2: CBC Folio presents "The Public Prosecutor," about that period immediately following the death of Robespierre.

11.10—Channel 2: Movie: Edmund Gwenn stars in the English movie, "South Riding."

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Royal Inland Hospital here reports a net operating surplus of $8,839 for 1955. It was the first surplus recorded in several years. Gene Cavazzi, chairman of the board of directors, said the hospital lost $9,720 in 1954. He said negotiations for a wage agreement with hospital employees, instituted in August, 1954, have still not been completed.

VICTORIA WOMAN WINS $1,000 IN VESTA COAL CONTEST

Mrs. James McNeill, 414 Russell Street, Victoria, receiving $1,000.00 cheque as winner of the Vesta Coal Contest. Mrs. McNeill chose the $1,000.00 in lieu of the Honolulu trip offered by the Vesta Coal Co.

Mr. Walter Walker, one of the Victoria dealers for Vesta Coal, is shown with Mr. R. L. Shannon, B.C. representative for Vesta Coal.

OPENS A NEW DIVISIONAL OFFICE IN VICTORIA

At the end of 1955 more than 10,000 Canadians were building their financial futures through INVESTORS SYNDICATE plans individually designed for savings, educational, business reserve and annuity purposes. The total amount of money these Canadians were planning to have exceeded $342,000,000 at December 30, 1955.

Thousands of Canadians are enjoying the advantages of a diversified investment in the prosperity of their country through their holdings of shares of INVESTORS MUTUAL OF CANADA LTD., a balanced, open-end mutual fund managed and distributed by INVESTORS SYNDICATE. Investors Mutual's assets were in excess of $89,000,000 at the end of 1955.

Many of these people live on Vancouver Island. In order to provide them with prompter, and more convenient service, INVESTORS SYNDICATE has opened a new office, under the direction of Mr. A. M. Easton, at 314 Scollard Bldg., Victoria, B.C.

Aussie Tennis Body Cuts Amateurs' Earning Power

MELBOURNE, Australia. (UP)—The Lawn Tennis Association of Australia has announced it will ask Bob Howe and Jack Arkininstall, two Aussies who have been barnstorming in foreign tournaments for the past two years, to comply immediately with its new regulations regarding expense money.

The LTAA, in a move to stamp out what it described as the "expenses racket," now requires all Australian players to obtain approval of tennis tours. They must supply complete details, including expense money offered, before playing in any foreign tournament.

(This plan is similar to that used by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.) Because the Australian Association does not even know the current whereabouts of Howe and Arkininstall, president Donald M. Ferguson said he has asked the USLTA to pass the details of the new rules to the two wandering players.

Meanwhile, Frank Sedgman revealed he made 400 Australian pounds (about $900) while touring international tournaments in 1952 before he turned professional.

"We stayed at the best hotels, ate well, traveled for nothing, and bought a few things," Sedgman said. "But although I finished with a surplus of 400 pounds, I consider I was well within the amateur rules of that time. Lew and Jennifer Hoad (the husband and wife who left Sydney this week for a foreign tour) probably will make less than that if the new rules are effectively policed."

Sedgman said he knew one leading overseas player who consistently made between $500 and $800 from each tournament, but he refused to disclose the player's name.

He said Howe and Arkininstall might clear 1,000 to 1,500 Australian pounds (between $2,250 and $3,375) yearly by playing every weekend in foreign tournaments.

Wilbur Just Won't Be Stopped

"Wilbur's hot again" is becoming a byword on city bowling alleys this year. The same cry was heard twice this week.

Wilbur Webb, association singles champ and currently mauling maples at the fastest clip in his lengthy bowling career, was easily top man of the week.

He earned the spot by racking up a sparkling 658 total on games of 216, 243 and 199 in Gibson's senior tenpins and came in with a 572 (204) effort at Strathcona.

No other city tenpin star can match his pace the past month. Wilbur has rapped off series of 579, 641, 560, 557, 551, 611 and 554 in that order.

He won the singles title with a 656 scratch series, plus 15 pins handicap, for an aggregate 671.

Other top triple at Strathcona, was notched by Roy Beggs with 603 on games of 195, 184 and 224.

Herb Chandler, 593 (244); Dave Doolittle, 566 (220); Bill Coates, 565 (232); Ron Wilson, 561; Nip Sage, 555 (200); Beggs, 554 (214, 201), and Cec Dixon, at 551 had other highs in the senior division.

In commercial tens, B. Hill, 583 (209, 219); Dave Williams, 564 (204), and Dan Lore, 555 (212) led.

In mixed action, Nich Howard, 587 (216), and Jim Anderson, 551, set the pace. Marge Beane led the women with a 529 total.

Mary Dyke came in with a 505 triple in women's tens at Gibson's, while Duff Williams with 502 was tops at Strathcona.

At Capital City, Ron Smith, 825 (325); Ken Jones, 800 (345); Harry Cool, 773, Ron Cuth, 766; Dave Scherr, 763 (258); Jerry Lawrence and Mike Kapalanichuk, 744; Jim Barry, 729; Bill McKinnon, 723; Bill Cool, 718, and Roy 756; Lloyd Chow, 756; Jack Walker, 738; Bill Odgers, 735, and Ralph Smith, 730, led in fivepins at Gibson's.

Jerry Jay, 726 (319); J. Hammond, 725; Roy McSween, 724 (306); May Wallis, 719; Fred Gardner and Ron Easter, 714; Roy Harris, 711; Larry Griffin, 703, and Ed Smith, 700, had other highs.

IT'S MY VIEW
BY

Notes from a dirty shirt cuff:

It doesn't matter how you score; they all count. The goal the other night at the arena by Doug Anderson which hit the back boards, ricocheted on top of the netting, rolled along the twine, hit Seattle goalie Charlie Hodge in the back and ended up in the net, brought a quick recollection by a soccer fan of "the most peculiar goal I ever saw." Unfortunately, our informant couldn't recall the competing teams, but the play stuck vividly in his memory. "It was in an Association cup-tie," he said. "There was a collision at the goalmouth, and the ball bounced free and came to rest about six feet from the goal line. A very high wind was blowing that day and before any player could get to the ball, a particularly strong gust blew the ball across the line and into the net for the only goal of the match."

We'll go along with that, even though some of the details are missing; for the unexpected does stick in memory.

Old-time lacrosse fans will readily recall Pete Anthony of the New Westminster Salmonbellies. Pete was a goalie and had a habit of "scooping" his saves, much in the manner of Gordy Johnston of the Shamrocks.

Pete was in his usual rare form this particular evening and was scooping the balls into the crowd with monotonous regularity.

Then it happened. On one save he flipped the ball high in the air, directly overhead. He looked for the ball, but couldn't locate it. By this time he had turned 180 degrees and was facing his goal while standing in the crease.

Suddenly the ball descended from out of the rafters, hit Pete in the chest and bounced into the net.

Yes, it can happen to anybody, like to goalie Roy Worters of the New York Americans hockey team, for example.

Roy made a save one night, turned completely around and, in attempting to clear the puck, threw it into his own goal.

That, to Roy's horror, was the only goal of the game.

And did you ever see a goal scored in hockey, with the defensive player "covering" the puck the last 60 feet? It happened in Vancouver. Vic Lovendahl, the former Canuck defender, was the unfortunate victim.

In attempting to skate back into his normal defensive position, Lovendahl lost his footing, fell on the loose puck, and his momentum carried him, and puck, into the goal past the startled netminder. The goal counted, too.

Al's Vision Slightly Impaired

Al Ostrom of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer sports staff seems like a nice fellow. That's why we feel he'll take a hint. "Get some new glasses Al! quick! You'll see more of the hockey game that way."

Here last week for the Seattle Americans' game with the Cougars, Al was noticeably disturbed by the Cougar victory.

That was understandable. Because so were the Americans. But Al's optical deficiency didn't come to light until later this week.

Writing in the P.I. Ostrom suggested that Cougar coach Eddie Olson qualified for the ham actor role by taking two dives which cost the Americans penalties.

What Al didn't notice, and we bring it to his attention, is that on one of those "dives," Pete Durham of the Americans (inadvertently, of course) touched Olson on the ankle with his stick.

Since then, Al Olson's ankle has resembled a balloon. And it's possible the full extent of the injury may not be determined until the close of the season.

Our alternative suggestion is, Al, that you hire a small boy to watch the play until you get that appointment with an optometrist.

Because, Al, when you suggest Cougar fans didn't like it when Cougar Bill Dobbyn jumped Bart Bradley, neither did Cougar fans appreciate it when American Jack Bowness cold-packed Colin Kilburn in front of the Seattle goal after the Cougar captain had scored. You never mentioned that!

But, sorry, that was at the other end of the rink, wasn't it? See what we mean, Al? You're missing half the game.

TORONTO AWARDED '56 GREY CUP FINAL

TORONTO (BUP)—The Grey Cup game will be played this year in Toronto and "sympathetic consideration" will be given Vancouver's bid for the 1958 game, president James McCaffrey of the Canadian Rugby Union announced today.

An announcement about the 1957 game, which Montreal wants if it can build a 40,000-seat stadium in time, will be made later today, McCaffrey said.

Cats Cheer Fred, But Mourn Doug

Wonoski Hero In Overtime; Anderson Hurt

Victoria 3, Westminster 2 (Overtime)

By BILL WALKER

There weren't too many things that could be described as "good" about Friday night's Western Hockey League game at Memorial Arena.

But among the blessings the Cougars can be thankful for, including their 3-2 decision over the New Westminster Royals, were these:

1. They assured themselves of a playoff berth.
2. They retained their three-point lead over Vancouver in the western division of the WHL.
3. They have, in rookie Fred Wonoski, a youngster who appears capable of stepping into the heat of the playoff race and making his presence felt, which he will have to do.

Wonoski, pressed into service as a late change, fired the winning goal against Royals at five minutes of the overtime period. He snapped up a rebound from Jim Robertson and beat Bev Bentley with a high shot for the second goal of his professional career.

Doug Macauley with his 28th counter of the year, and Bruce Carmichael, netting his 18th, got the other Cougar goals.

Gord Fashoway and Ron Mathews scored for Royals.

Also in winning the Cougars but lost.

ANDERSON HURT

They lost the services of Doug Anderson for tonight's game at Seattle, and perhaps for a longer period. Anderson suffered a shoulder injury in the first period and saw limited action thereafter. He will be X-rayed this morning to determine the extent of the injury. Olson is also a doubtful starter at Seattle tonight. His injured ankle has not responded to treatment.

The game itself was dull and scrubby.

Actually, neither team deserved the victory in the true sense of the word "deserve." The difference was that the Cougar goals were of a higher standard. Both Royal counters were of the "gift" variety.

Macauley opened the tally in the second period when, with Cougars short-handed, he and Kilburn broke away from a Royal power play, and he beat Bentley with a flip shot to the left side.

Carmichael was put in the clear by Wonoski at the Royal blue line, and the husky winger broke in fast to drill a low shot into the corner and give the Cougars a 2-0 bulge.

A GIFT

Cougars presented Fashoway with his 43rd goal of the year when Nelson Bulloch deflected Fashoway's passout from behind the goal between Pelletier's legs.

Off Matthews' tying goal, Pelletier explained it simply, and took all blame:

"I reached for it, but forgot to close the gate."

Wonoski set up his own winning goal by giving Robertson the pass that led to the rebound on which he beat Bentley.

The rookie had one word for his feelings. "Great," he said, and then repeated it to the next inquiring well-wisher. "Great."

KENNY BOILS

But that isn't what owner Kenny MacKenzie of the Royals thought of the game, or the Royals.

"We st—," he said. "We played like we didn't care whether we won or not; and, for a bunch of professional athletes, that's about the worst I've ever seen."

"And your fellows weren't much better," he added.

Which, it might be said, Cougars will have to be, to get by the Americans tonight—and the Royals, too, as they host Canucks.

ISLAND BOXING CHAMPS

O'Hare Named Golden Boy

By DENNY BOYD

Curly-haired Brian O'Hare is the fair-haired boy of boxing for 1956 on Vancouver Island.

The slender, 118-pound wisp of calculating ring wisdom from the Fire Department club captured the Golden Boy award for 1956 Friday night at the conclusion of the annual Golden Gloves.

O'Hare will lead the way for a team of 10 Vancouver Island fighters who will venture into Vancouver next Friday and Saturday to show their ring ware in the B.C. Golden Gloves. O'Hare won the big Golden Boy Trophy when he lifted a decision from gamecock John Pringle of Colwood in the 118-pound final.

In defeating Pringle, O'Hare fought exactly the kind of fight he wanted. He let the effervescent Pringle do the forcing but time and time again beguiled the Colwood fighter into making mistakes.

Pringle showed a crude but mean right hand but was almost without a left hand and O'Hare exploited the weakness by countering with double hooks every time Pringle threw one of his looping rights.

O'Hare bled Pringle's nose in the third round but pure moxie kept the Colwood fighter boring in.

Burton Gave It the Old Try

In the first fight of the card, Skimp Williams of Chemainus caught up with a tiring Bill Burton in the third round and put the swarthy Victoria fighter away by a TKO after two minutes of the third to win the 139-pound Island title.

Burton, who appears to have been around in the boxing world, punished Williams in the first round with a clubbing right hand but Williams dropped Burton for a nine-count in the third with a sweeping uppercut and put him away with a second knockdown at 1:56 of the round.

Whirlwind Richard Murakami, a 15-year-old Japanese boy fighting out of Salt Spring Island, showed more showmanship and motion than a chorus line and won the 112-pound division title from smart little Pat Burton of Fire Department.

Phil Paul took the 132-pound crown but not without trouble from stocky Ralph Thompson, lunging, swarming fighter who was kept off balance by Paul's long, raking left Thompson shook off the effects of three crackling rights in the first, went down from a slip in the second and split the third.

It Could Have Gone Either Way

One of the best scraps of the night was the 126-pound final in which Bruce Harwood of Chemainus won a close decision from Victoria's Bruce McLay.

McLay appeared to have a slight edge for the first two rounds but Harwood wobbled the city fighter in the third with a short jab and then drove McLay into the ropes with a flurry of rights.

Four Navy fighters won trips to the B.C. Games, being automatically awarded Island titles since they were the only entries in their weight classes. They fought exhibition bouts with Vancouver fighters Friday.

Squeak Weisgerber was awarded a TKO over Vancouver's Kurt Max in a 147-pound go when he split the Vancouver fighter's lower lip like a sausage.

In the 156-pound class, Rip Kirby of RCN ran into a smoothie in the person of Jimmy Walters of Vancouver South Hill A.C. Walters took a close decision and was awarded a trophy as the best Vancouver fighter.

Robbie Roberts, 175 pounds, of RCN, absorbed terrific punishment in the third round of his bout with Lindy Lindmeyer, a raw-boned blond with box cars in both hands.

Lindmeyer was given a third-round TKO when he was swinging axe-like punches at Roberts, in spite of shouted instructions from his seconds to ease up.

Canucks Belt Amerks; Warriors, Flyers Romp

The Western Hockey League ran through a full schedule Friday night and form told in all cases. The leaders won and the trailers lost.

In Vancouver, Seattle Americans received a lesson in hockey as Canucks thumped them 9-1.

In the two prairie games, the division-leading Winnipeg Warriors trounced Brandon's Regals 8-2 while Edmonton Flyers handed Calgary Stampeders a 6-1 lacing.

George Ford, Fred Brown and Tom McCarthy each scored twice for Canucks while Les Lilley, Hugh Currie and Phil Maloney scored singles.

Ed Mazur paced Winnipeg with three goals. Barry Gullen scored his 33rd and 34th of the season while Paul Masnick, Bill Burega and Mike Nykoluk scored the others.

In Edmonton, rookie goalie Dennis Riggan, appearing in his first professional game, was a standout as he allowed Stampeders only one goal.

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

The Toronto Maple Leafs marched into the National Hockey League battle this year waving a banner emblazoned with their Goals, Guts and Glamour motto.

The motto has led the Leafs to a poor fourth place in the NHL.

Victoria Cougar captain Colin Kilburn attributes the Cougar success this hockey semester to a simpler but more substantial combination.

"It's hustle, holler and skate," says the runty Cougar fire-brand.

"We don't have any outstanding stars on our club, but we don't have any prima donnas or beavers, either. We get 15 guys out there and they're all working together. When you get everyone giving it the old hustle, holler and skate, you get harmony and harmony is what wins hockey games."

Breaking his thoughts down more precisely, Kilburn expounded further on the elements that have delivered the Cougars to first place in the frenzied western division paper chase.

Contributions Add Up to Success

"Pelletier's come up with a big year for us and Olson's giving us good coaching. Some people give Eddy a rough ride, but they don't remember that when he came out here at the beginning of the season, he was coming to a strange team; he didn't know the players in the league, the class of hockey here or even the size of any of the arenas. And we're in first place."

"When we went on a road trip to the prairies seven weeks ago, we were 12 points out of first place and everyone was counting us to finish in third place. We've shown a few people a few things."

Kilburn himself, has shown a few people a few things this year. Described by some people as a couple of years ago as being too bad-tempered to be a consistent scorer, Kilburn has an outside chance of scoring 50 goals this year and even grumpy Coley Hall, Vancouver Canuck owner, calls him "the outstanding forward in the league."

At least one NHL club is said to be interested in Kilburn for next year. However, Kilburn approaches his NHL possibilities with reserve.

"Look," he says, "I'm 28 now and I'll be 29 next hockey season. That's kind of old for NHL rookies. Mind you, if any NHL team comes looking for me, I'll make sure I'm home when they come to call."

Chance to Join Exclusive Company

"I had my big NHL chance a long time ago, when I was 21. It was after Toe Blake had retired and Montreal was looking for a left winger to play with Rocket Richard and Elmer Lach. They called me up from the old Edmonton Flyers' senior team and laid out a two-year contract in front of me. If I'd signed it, I would have been playing left wing on what was left of the old Punch Line."

"I talked it over with a couple of the Montreal veterans and they advised me against it. I went home. Eventually, they signed Bert Olmstead to the same position."

Kilburn tells this story wistfully, not trying to blame anyone.

Should he go up next year, a solid core of Western League goalies and defencemen would be happy as clams to see him go. Kilburn's bullish tactics around enemy goal-mouths wins him few friends, lots of bruises and frequent compensatory goals.

Kilburn and Vancouver goalie Ray Mikulan have been mixing it freely this season.

"Mikulan," says Kilburn, "keeps chopping me on the same place on the knee. If he has to carve me, I wish he'd spread it around a bit."

And there was the recent incident when Kilburn stole the puck from Seattle defenceman Jack Bonnass and scored a goal. As Kilburn skated by Bonnass, the red-headed bucko dropped Kilburn with a swooshing right hook.

Says Kilburn, "I was just going back to thank him for the goal and he hit me."

"I never did get to thank him."

Navy (That's Brown) Takes Service 'Spiel'

That friendly little inter-service war that has been going on at Victoria Curling Club Thursday and Friday is over, and the Navy is the victor.

Petty Officer Bill Brown and his Navy rink of CPO Plume, CPO Ebbeling and CPO Bell swept through the double round-robin competition with six straight wins, polishing off the Cpl. Marshall RCAF rink from Vancouver in the final 9-8.

With a three-ender in the 10th, the 12 rinks competing, four from each service, were divided into two round-robins. Brown won his division handsily, defeating in the process the defending champion, S-Ldr. Moir, while Marshall was subjected to a playoff with CPO Oswald's Navy quartet before meeting Brown.

Marshall did it the hard way, coming up with a five-ender in the final end to bounce Oswald 7-6. The game ended after six ends to allow Marshall for the final.

The Brown-Marshall affair was nip and tuck until the final rock was thrown by Marshall's skip, S-Ldr. Watt. With Brown two down and with three rocks in the house, Watt was light with his shot and left Brown counting the necessary three.

Navy won it all the way around, taking the Tri-Service Trophy with a combined total of 60 points. RCAF was second with 50, while Army had 40.

At a smoker held at VCC following the final game, Commodore H. F. Pullen presented trophies and prizes to the various winners.

Hope Springs Eternal, But Not in Chicago

Montreal 3, Chicago 1

By The Canadian Press

Spare a moment's sympathy for Chicago Black Hawks, the unfortunates of the National Hockey League.

The poor old Hawks seem hopelessly lost in the frantic dash for Stanley Cup playoff spots. Unless something happens soon, the Hawks are destined once again to finish last.

They were cuffed 3-1 Friday night by the league-leading Montreal Canadiens and the setback just about knocked them out of playoff contention.

It was the only game of the night and 8,251 customers at Chicago Stadium watched Hawks suffer their 33rd loss of the 1955-56 campaign. The Chicago squad has 47 points, three behind Boston Bruins and seven off the pace set by Toronto Maple Leafs, who hold the fourth and final playoff position.

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The British Columbia Olympic basketball trials wind up tonight at Vancouver, but there is a possibility additional games will have to be played to decide the tournament winner.

The underdogs upset the apparent Friday, with Eilers knocking off C-Fun 56-50, and the defending Canadian champion Alberni Athletics turning back the University of British Columbia 62-50. The four squads complete their round-robin playdowns tonight, with Eilers meeting UBC and Alberni tackling C-Fun.

This inscribed photograph accompanied a letter from Dr. Schweitzer to St. John's choir and organist.

Dr. Schweitzer Thanks St. John's

Frederick Chubb, organist and choir master of St. John's Anglican Church, and the choir itself, have been honored recently by receipt of a letter from the great humanitarian, musician, and authority on Bach, Dr. Albert Schweitzer.

Dr. Schweitzer's letter refers to the concert given by the choir last November following which gross receipts of $800 were forwarded to Dr. Schweitzer for work in his French Equatorial African mission hospital. All expenses connected with the concert were absorbed by the choir.

Translation of Dr. Schweitzer's letter which was written in French, follows:

Lamorne, Gabon, French Equatorial Africa, 17 Jan. 1956.

Dear St. John's Choir, dear Organist,

I wish to give to you my personal thanks for the large donation you have made to my hospital. It must have been an excellent recital to have produced such a large sum. It will be of great service to my hospital in which are treated 250 ordinary sick patients and 200 lepers. It is difficult to feed so many so far in the forest.

With my best regards, (signed) "ALBERT SCHWEITZER"

Is Orchestra to Stay? Time for Decision Now

Victoria Has Bargain in Symphony, Owes Debt to Voluntary Workers

By HANS GRUBER

With the approach of the end of another symphony subscription season, you will be likely to hear a good deal about the severely tight financial spot in which the Victoria Symphony Orchestra finds itself. Lest you think that our orchestra is unique in having such problems, let me assure you that such is far from being the case.

If you lived in any other city anywhere on this continent where a symphony orchestra exists, you would hear precisely the same story, only more so. It is just that every city must work out its particular problem of this nature, and here in Victoria we hear Hans Gruber only about our own orchestra's difficulties. But it is the same everywhere—from New York to the West Coast.

The question has arisen from time to time—can Victoria afford a symphony orchestra of such quality as the executive and musical directors are striving for?

On the basis of some figures hereunder, you can answer that question for yourselves: symphony orchestras, as a rule, cost 50 cents per capita to maintain in any given city, give or take a few cents. There are certain isolated expensive exceptions—the orchestras in Philadelphia and Boston cost about a dollar per capita.

By contrast, the total cost costs three times as much to operate—our "overhead" is negligible.

We have a board of directors and a women's committee who voluntarily fulfill such duties as would ordinarily be given over to an elaborate, paid office staff, headed by a high-salaried business manager.

FRACTIONAL REWARD

To these dedicated, selfless people alone is the community at large in deep debt. Then there are the musicians of the orchestra, who undertake their hard, nerve-racking, stern, responsible work as orchestra players for a remuneration which is but a fraction of what other communities take for granted their musicians should receive.

Thirdly, we do not have to, and never will so long as I have any say in the matter, lure our public to the theatre on the strength of world-famous and vastly expensive guest artists. This orchestra, if I can help it, will never become a regrettably necessary background for one star performer, which is the sad fate of too many other orchestras.

A near-by orchestra's annual bill for three items only—namely guest artists, conductor, and business manager—these three items alone come to more than the whole and total season cost of our orchestra, including everything.

We cannot go on much longer as we are. The time has come for Victoria to show, once and for all, whether or not it cares to keep its orchestra.

Canadian Sergeant Composer

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Canadian army musician has received high praise for a march he composed.

The march, entitled "Fort Osborne," was written by Band Sergeant William Thomas Mathew, 39, arranger with the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery band in Winnipeg. It is built around a melodic theme.

Sgt. Mathew composed the work last year. While in Fort Churchill he met musicians from a U.S. army band who asked for an arrangement. Sgt. Mathew recently received a recording of the march by the American band as well as a letter of commendation.

Sgt. Mathew joined the army in 1953 after resigning from his post as director of music at the Empire Theatre in Glasgow. In 1944 he enlisted with the Royal East Kent Regiment in the regimental band and served in Persia, Iraq and the Middle East until 1946.

Unique School Drama Festival Result of Full Co-Operation

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Among the features that this city may claim as unique must be reckoned the Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival which will open March 5 being its 16th consecutive year.

It is unique because it is one of few Victoria ventures that have survived for so long the inevitable public ennui that mingles so many worthwhile endeavors.

It is also unique because it is the biggest thing of its kind on the North American continent. And for the fact that its vitality has never faltered, its progress never faltered.

Each year the great combination of teacher-pupil-parent has succeeded in turning out something a little better, a little more polished.

Especially in the field of direction has there been a noticeable development: More vivid touches of imagination; better and more consistent style; greater technical knowledge.

Then there is the matter of choice of play. This, so vital to the ultimate success of the production, has also shown a marked improvement over the years.

STUFF TO GROW ON

A quick glance through the program for the week of March 5 to 10 and one is struck by such excellent selections as acts from Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows," Shaw's "Saint Joan" and the Cornelia Otis Skinner play, "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay" as well as adaptations of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Ugly Duckling."

Here is stuff on which young minds can feed and grow; acting material which both challenges and rewards, most of it being at the same time eminently suitable for the age groups in question.

It is perhaps difficult for anyone who has not actually seen the effect of all this activity on the youngsters to appreciate its significance. One presumes that this is what, in some instances, has been castigated as "frills" of education.

Only an ordinary application of common sense, however, should make clear the psychological advantages of developing a constructive and co-operative form of recreation; the gaining of poise, training of memory and cultivation of taste such activity provides.

ADJUDICATORS' CHOICE

The festival which will open at Esquimalt High School on the Monday evening, includes both afternoon and evening sessions and winds up with an honor performance on Saturday at which three good, contrasting plays chosen by the adjudicator, will be repeated.

Incidentally, speaking of the adjudicator, who, on this occasion, is Mrs. Lily Harper of Vancouver, much of the development of the festival can be laid to the fact that the School Drama Festival has almost always been fortunate in gaining the services of well equipped, conscientious adjudicators.

And when all is said and done no festival is any better than its adjudicator.

1956 Is Right Year For G and S Pirates

In switching from their original intention to produce a contemporary operetta this spring the Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society has made an apt choice in the G and S favorite "Pirates of Penzance."

Apt, because this happens to be leap year and the turn of the delightfully ridiculous plot hinges on the fact that Frederick, the hero, was born in leap year.

Rehearsals are now under way, with auditioning for principal roles satisfactorily concluded.

A singer new to Victoria will be heard in the leading role of Mabel. She is Ruth New who is reported to have an exceptional soprano voice.

Others in the cast will be Norman Tyrrell, Vanessa Lax, Ruth Powell, Alan Robertson, Lex Sutcliffe, Arthur Courville, Jimmie Mead-Robbins and Eleanor Duff.

The last named, while popular with Victoria audiences for her beautiful contralto, will be mak-

TIME OUT FOR MUSIC-MAKING

Concentration is plain on the faces of violinist Roy Foord and Sam Woo, members of the Victoria High School Orchestra which is rehearsing under Miss D. Hoggood, to participate in the big band and orchestra conference being held here for the first time in April. Approximately 1,500 student instrumentalists will attend the conference from all parts of the province.

Pianist Leonard Pennario Called Virtuoso With Soul

Success came early to pianist Leonard Pennario, who will play at the Royal Theatre, on March 12, in the Famous Artists York Philharmonic Series. At 12 he was soloist in the Grieg Piano Concerto—which he had learned in six days—with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra. His first major triumph was as soloist with the Los Angeles Philharmonic, with which he has since made guest appearances some-where between 25 and 30 times.

His debut with the New York Philharmonic, in 1943, which through the years has been followed by other guest appearances, was hailed as "brilliant" by the New York Herald Tribune's eminent critic, Virgil Thomson.

He has been soloist with conductors Mitropoulos, Monteux, Rodzinski, Klemperer, Thor Johnson, Seviak, Wallenstein and Steinberg, and has given a number of recitals in New York, six in

For driving on Gorge Road at a speed over 30 miles an hour and failing to obey a stop light at Douglas and Bay, Allan John Tennyson, 1575 Clawthorpe, was fined a total of $20 in city police court Friday.

CORELLI GROUP DEBUT IN PRIVATE RECITAL

First concert of the newly-formed Corelli Chamber Music Society will be held tonight at 8:30 at the home of the president, Dr. R. J. Manning, before an invited audience.

An uniquely interesting program has been chosen for the occasion. A flute quartet by Scarlatti will be performed by George Lynn, Linda Redden, Stephen Morris and Charlotte Kay. Debussy's "Dances Sacred and Profane" for harp with piano accompaniment will be played by Lorna Langley with Marion Matcham.

There will be a group for recorder and piano presented by Britta Runge and Boyce Gaddes and a Haydn Trio in D, by Bernard Rain, Marguerite Hultgren and Lorna Mulholland.

Zsa-Zsa Thumbs Down On Spouting Spouse

BY RON BURTON
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Zsa Zsa Gabor thinks the "desirable male" is one who listens. But beware of the "spouting spouse." "Almost any young woman can fix herself up so she's attractive enough to get 'her man,'" said Miss Gabor as she stood near a former husband of hers, suave, non-talkative actor George Sanders.

"It really boils down to just picking and choosing, and this is where a girl should be careful. It's too easy to be fooled by a man who's attractive and personable. Then, after a girl is married, she learns he is self-centred and talks her head off, and she never gets a chance to say even 'yes, dear.' When this goes on day after day, it can become boring at the very least, and the next thing she knows it hits her that she has married an egocentric instead of a man who will listen to her for a change."

"Marrying men with money somehow seems to be a crime in the eyes of many," she said. "Why, just because a man has plenty of money doesn't mean he may be difficult to get along with. Now that I think about it, money often helps a great deal."

PHIL SILVERS

Sgt. Bilko...

In Action

It Took Phil Silvers 30 Years To Create Comic Masterpiece

BY DICK KLEINER
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—Phil Silvers, in a screaming red shirt and a porkpie hat, made believe he was in a telephone booth. This was the second day of rehearsals for another episode in the career of Sgt. Ernie Bilko, the TV character Phil has ridden to fame.

"What happens here?" he called out. The story line had Bilko, in New York on furlough, vainly trying to locate an old girl friend via phone.

"Just think in a one-liner," said Nat Hiken, the producer-director-writer-creator of Bilko. "OK. How long was she sent up for?"

Ten minutes later, they were running through the same scene again. Once more, Silvers hesitated and asked what he was supposed to do. Hiken again said to toss in a one-liner.

"OK. Well, didn't the lawyer ask for an appeal?" This is Phil Silvers, ad libbing two different gags in the same spot. No telling what he'll say when the scene is finally shot.

He's one of the top ad libbers currently adding libbs. He can stick to a script when he has to but when his well-developed sense of timing and comedy tells him something is needed, he can toss in an aside or a grimace or a gag and make it look like 15 writers spent a frantic week-end perfecting it.

There was a five-minute break and Phil sat down on one of the folding camp chairs that lined the hall. He mopped his face with a handkerchief and bummed a cigaret.

"This is the drudgery," he said. "This rehearsing—plain drudgery."

BUSINESS AS USUAL

Most of the cast went outside during the break for a quick coke. Phil stayed for a hasty conference with Hiken about an entrance, a rapid exchange of pleasantries and gags with comedian Jack E. Leonard who wandered in, a brief discussion with his press agent.

Then he was back to work. In a twinkling, he was Bilko—scheming, plotting and gagging. He made the transition look easy. And, to Phil Silvers, it is easy. He's spent 30 years in perfecting the character that is Bilko; it's second nature to him now.

The Bilko-ish character is a result of three decades of work in vaudeville, burlesque, movies, the stage. Gradually, Silvers evolved the curious mixture of larceny and loveliness that is Ernie Bilko. Gradually, he acquired the sense of timing that makes this a comic masterpiece. There is nothing admirable about Bilko, yet people are drawn to him.

Silvers explains this simply. "There's a little larceny in all of us," he says. "I've known millionaires who love to get free tickets. They could buy the theatre, but they like free tickets. Sgt. Bilko appeals to that streak. He's no angel, but nobody hates him."

BECAME A BRAT

Silvers started in show business at 14 as a singer. When his voice changed he became the "brat" in an old vaudeville act. Here he learned that he could make people laugh and—more important—that people laugh at

In the second of its season's concerts, the National Orchestral Association presented two very young soloists—Robert Notkoff, 14, violinist, in the Glazounov concerto, and Lorin Hollander, 11, pianist, in the Mozart C minor concerto (K 467).

Robert has been a pupil at the Manhattan School of Music since he was seven. He made his debut, with the Hartford Symphony, at the age of 12. Lorin is the son of the concertmaster of the old NBC Symphony when Toscanini was the conductor.

brats. (Bilko is, after all, a mature brat.) He drifted into burlesque and here he acquired the sense of timing and the ad lib ability that's another part of Bilko.

In Hollywood, where he was usually cast as the hero's fast-talking pal, he learned the tricks of the camera trade. On Broadway, where he starred in several musicals, notably "Top Banana," he learned the discipline of a script.

As he says, "All these factors combine to make 'The Phil Silvers Show' successful. It took me 30 years to get it all."

There was one other contributing factor—patience. For over a year, after "Top Banana" closed, he was in virtual retirement. He was plotting and planning, creating and rejecting until he and Hiken came up with the Bilko format. Before Bilko, they'd dreamed up some 50 other ideas—one would have cast him as the proverbial brother-in-law, another as the proprietor of a gym.

ONE GOOD SHOW

"What we did was see if we could come up with a good idea for the 30th show," Silvers says. "Anybody can do one good show—if he can't, he should get out of town. We tried to get a series where the 30th show would be as good as the first."

His success can be measured in ratings: Phil is the first to out-rate Milton Berle, and he's done it several times.

Silvers is a native and confirmed New Yorker. He likes to hang around with the boys in Lindy's, the connoisseur's delicatessen. He likes the sports and theatrical bunch. He's never alone. His one marriage—to one-time Miss America Jo Carroll Dennison—went on the rocks, his friends say, because his idea of a big night out with his wife was a basketball game and a late supper at Toots Shor's with a covey of his cronies hanging around.

Lots of laughs, no privacy. Now he's at the top: Thirty years of work and a solid year of planning have given him fame and recognition as one of the top bananas of television. There was another break in the rehearsal. Phil flopped down in the chair, bummed another cigaret, stretched his legs out

BOOK TALK

Canada's High Literary Award All Glory, No Practical Value

BY JAMES SCOTT

The big bonanza for Canadian writers, the one which hasn't got a cent of hard cash attached to it, has been awarded once more. Once again, five Canadians have been singled out for the highest recognition this land offers its authors — the Governor General's Awards.

I don't really have much to say about this business this year which I haven't said before. I still think that either the federal government or some well-intentioned rich private patron ought to subsidize these medals so that a substantial roll of the long green accompanies each medal. Very, very rarely is the winner of the medal a rich man. I think our best writers deserve practical recognition and I think, too, that a hard cash award would do no harm in encouraging our writers to greater effort.

Well, I've said it again and I live long enough maybe I'll see that dream come true. Maybe.

AFTER HARSH WORDS

As for the five winners, well naturally my best congratulations. The fiction winner, Lionel Shapiro, ought to be happy that his native land (for which he has finally recognized him).

The poetry winner, Wilfred Watson of Edmonton ought to be encouraged indeed that his first book, "Friday's Child," should be singled out for high honor. Norman Berrill of Montreal, who won the award for creative non-fiction for his "Man's Emerging Mind" is used to this, as is Donald G. Creighton of Toronto who wins the academic non-fiction award for "John A. Macdonald, the Old Chief." Both these fellows have won medals in the same class before. Kerry Wood, who cops the juvenile award is a first-timer with his "The Map Maker."

As for the calibre of the work singled out for recognition, well, every man to his prejudice. I always say. The best test I can think of is for everybody interested in Canadian letters and the cause of good reading generally to go through these five books and when that chore is finished ask himself if they add up to what he would call a satisfactory reading experience and a Canadian achievement in literature of which he can be proud.

As for me—No comment!

DEAD MAN'S WISH

They have been having quite a shamble down in New York over the posthumous printing of playwright Eugene O'Neill's autobiographical play called "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

REDCAP BY DAY... MINISTER AT NIGHT

JOHN CHRISTIE HOLLAND, by Jessie L. Beattie, Ryerson, Toronto. $3.50. 160 pages.

Too rarely these days does one come across a simply and directly told story which, by the fibre of the subject matter practically writes itself.

Such a story is that of Rev. J. C. Holland, his ancestors and his family, most of whom were negroes. Holland was a redcap in Hamilton's bustling railway station for many years, and at night the well-loved minister of Hamilton's Church for colored persons—though the listeners to his sermons were rarely confined to those of his own race.

In 1953 he was named Hamilton's "Man of the Year," and when he died in 1954 he had exemplified in his life that almost forgotten standard—the "Christian gentleman."

John Holland made people forget about the color line. Persons simply never thought of it in his presence, so intense was the character of the man. He showed tolerance and understanding himself, in all phases of his active life.

The book is, of course, highly moral in text, but if one can wade through the obvious din against sin, the fine gentleman who emerges is a character one is proud to meet, even at this late date.—T.D.

UBC AWARD TO CREIGHTON

Vancouver Humorist Gets Leacock Medal

TORONTO (CP)—The Leacock Medal for Humor for 1955 has been won by Eric Nicol of Vancouver and the University of British Columbia medal for Popular Biography by Prof. Donald G. Creighton of Toronto.

Mr. Nicol, Vancouver Daily Province columnist, received the award for "Shall We Join the Ladies," a collection of sketches and essays. Prof. Creighton won the UBC medal with "The Old Chief," the second volume of his biography of Sir John A. Macdonald, which last week was awarded the Governor-General's Medal for academic non-fiction.

The awards were announced Friday night by R. D. Hilton Smith, chairman of the Governor-General's Awards Board which administers the Leacock Medal for the Stephen Leacock Memorial Committee of Orillia, Ont., and the UBC Medal for the university.

Eric Nicol, who won the Leacock Medal in 1950 for his sketches, "The Roving I," was born in Kingston, Ont., but now lives in Vancouver where he graduated from the University of British Columbia with an MA degree. Previous to joining The Province he had been a lecturer in English at UBC, a radio script writer for the CBC, and a free-lance writer for Canadian magazines and the CBC.

Which ever way you look at it there is room for regret. On the one hand, the strict letter of a dead man's wishes was not carried out. On the other, has any one the right to destroy the work—any work at all—of a great poet? It's a dilemma whichever way you look at it.

Meanwhile, I suspect Mrs. O'Neill is losing no sleep over the ethics of her problem. According to the latest reckoning, the first edition of the "Long Day's Journey Into Night" is completely sold out and another larger edition is on the press.

THE STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

NEWS NOTES—It is reported that the current $1 Totem stamp is to be replaced with a new design before long. In used condition it has never been very plentiful.

Dollar stamps were ten times more numerous 15 years ago than they are today, in spite of the great growth in Canada's commerce in the meantime. But the big banks and corporations that used to use them have all switched to meters. Specimens of the "Totem" in fine condition are worth holding on to.

The United States has come in for a good deal of criticism in the last few years for issuing so many commemorative stamps. The present policy now limits these special issues to 12 per year, which isn't so bad.

How much worse it could be may be imagined when it is realized that the United States postal department has on file 2,200 nominations for special commemoratives, which have been submitted by various organizations in the last year or two.

PRIZE TO VICTORIA The Canadian Philatelic Society recently held a membership drive throughout the nearly 50 chapters which are scattered across the country. First prize went to the Greater Victoria Philatelic Society, which is the local representative branch of the CP.

A note for coin collectors: Archaeologists who were excavating the ruins of the ancient "Friday Mosque" in Iraq uncovered a well-preserved bronze jar containing 700 silver coins of the 13th century, as well as a glazed jar of gold coins and jewelry of the 14th century.

The find is one of the most important of its kind in that part of the world. It is thought that the coins were buried during the Tamerlane invasion.

Dr. Paul E. Baker's monograph, "The Forgotten Kutenai" is a study of an Indian tribe living in northern Idaho and the southern interior of British Columbia.

It is not intended as light reading, but rather as an aid to scientific study and as such will be of value to anthropologists and ethnologists.

Lisner Pre-Eminent As Art Educationist

By COLIN GRAHAM

SEPTEMBER GALE—By John A. B. McLeish; 28 illustrations, four in color. J. M. Dent & Sons.

This welcome tribute to Arthur Lismer, one of the leading painters of Canada's famous Group of Seven, is an informal biography which has the special authority of having been written by one of the artist's closest friends.

"September Gale" is the title of what is perhaps Lismer's finest canvas, a huge panorama of Georgian Bay stirring under the stimulus of an exuberant wind. It was a happy notion to take this canvas, as a symbol of his life.

For Lismer, with all his sparkle, energy and buoyant enthusiasm, has for more than four decades breezed through the world of Canadian art like some beneficent and refreshing westerly.

Witty, sane, optimistic and generous, he has been both a painter of exceptional energy and a tireless proponent of art as one of the essentials of the good life.

GREAT CONTRIBUTION

Though somewhat uncritical in his admirations, the author carefully and with lively color traces the story of the painter's early life in Yorkshire, his debut in Canada as a fledgling artist, the whole tale of his struggles and triumphs as a member of the Group of Seven, his work as teacher and lecturer, and finally his great contribution to the growth of child art in Canada, culminating in his international recognition as an authority on the subject.

One senses that Lismer has been far too busy as teacher and campaigner for the cause of Canadian art to develop his gift as a painter to its fullest, and it may be that his activities as an educationist will ultimately prove to be his major contribution to his adopted country.

Whatever the case, it has been a tremendous contribution, and Canada has much to thank him for. The detailed story set forth in "September Gale" shows us the measure of our debt.

PREMIER WINS ROUND WITH NEHRU

LONDON (CP)—How Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala of Ceylon had the last word in an exchange with India's Pandit Nehru is recorded in a book just published here.

At the Afro-Asian conference in Bandung, Indonesia, Sir John became fed up with attacks on so-called "colonialism" directed against such Western powers as Britain, France and the Netherlands. He asked why Soviet colonialism should be exempted, and thereby caused some ruffled feelings.

"Why didn't you show me your speech before you made it?" Nehru asked the premier. Sir John replied: "Well, do you show me yours?"

The incident is related in "An Asian Prime Minister's Story," Harapp, written by Sir John.

Idealism, Confidence Made Fiorello Great

LIFE WITH FIORELLO, by Ernest Cuneo. MacMillan Co., Toronto.

"Life With Fiorello" is a memoir of Fiorello H. La Guardia by a one-time law clerk and lifetime friend of the tempestuous "Little Flower" who is credited with having done more to wreck Tammany's influence and sweep out civic corruption in New York than any other individual.

The memoir covers the years prior to La Guardia's mayoralty, his work as a congressman, his first election as mayor, his crushing defeat by Jimmy Walker in 1929 and his re-election later to the post which he held for 12 consecutive years.

The author tells how La Guardia's world-wide fame and reputation as the most popular mayor New York ever had was earned by his self-confidence, his fearlessness and unswerving loyalty to his ideals.

AN IDEALIST

A reform politician at a time when New York sadly needed reform, he was idealistic and sentimental yet extremely practical.

Nobody but an intimate friend such as the author was could paint so vivid a picture of a famous figure.

Cuneo describes La Guardia as a man whose self-confidence was so great he felt himself master of any problem. He had answers to everything and exercised virtual dictatorship in pressing his policies.

He was "for the people—the lost

New York politics to become engrossed in this book.

The story is so well told it could be about an unknown character and still be interesting.

The author has the talent of making every word live and count, a reportorial style, rather than a literary style, but at the peak of perfection. Few writers can equal him in telling a story so smoothly yet, graphically.—T.M.

While some might well argue that there was a lot of intolerance in some of his views, and all the qualifications credited to him do not sound highly commendable, the author leaves his readers convinced that the results of his years in office justified all that he did and the way he did it.

ARTS AND ROYALTY

Incidental but interesting points the author mentions: poetry left La Guardia utterly cold; he had no interest in fiction; little use for royalty, whom he called loafers; he disliked abstract painting, male ballet dancers and big brass that acted like big brass; he was against betting and book-makers but boasted he was psychic and could pick long shots.

"He made $2 bets on Italian jockeys once in a blue moon and if they didn't come in he screamed like a baby," a bookmaker reported.

Bishop Sheen's Opinions Are Open to Argument

THINKING LIFE THROUGH, by Bishop Fulton Sheen. McCraw-Hill Co. of Canada Ltd. (245 pages). $4.50.

Bishop Fulton Sheen's most recent telecasts have been collected and published under the title of "Thinking Life Through."

Reaction to the bishop's reasoning will vary according to the character of the reader. One who is usually prepared to accept as true any statement at all, provided the speaker is sufficiently eminent, will browse through the book contentedly nodding acquiescence. Others will frequently disagree and argue that some of His Grace's dicta are open to challenge.

In his chapter on juvenile delinquency, for instance, the bishop asserts that where the parents drink overmuch the children turn out to be juvenile delinquents who will destroy property and assault persons, smashing school desks, breaking dishes and furniture in restaurants and homes and be guilty of assault and rape.

Many will rise to point out biographical literature teems with examples of children with drinking parents who achieved eminence in professions and in commerce. Often the effect on the child of such an environment leads him to forewarn alcohol entirely.

The bishop has the knack of coining some good epigrams, for instance: "Within a century the world has passed from one extreme, in which sex was a subject nobody could talk about, to our present period where people can talk about nothing else."

Some of them come as a mild shock when read, but probably added spice when spoken over the air, and the book does not pretend to be anything else but a reproduction of the telecasts.

young than the one on "Juvenile Delinquents."

In view of the recent suggestions that Vancouver's teenage delinquents should be inducted into the armed forces, a quote from the bishop's chapter, "The Glory of the Soldier," has topical interest. "When a man is by himself he can be an egotist," the bishop writes, "but when he is in an army he loses his self importance and begins to love all men."

The book is not dull nor "preachy." Whether you enjoy it or not will depend largely upon your own beliefs, temperament and tolerance.

Bishop Sheen does not like communism. Each of his 25 chapters on such varied topics as "Angels," "Macbeth" and "The Laws of Marriage" contain a rebuke to communism in one form or another, while three chapters are entirely concerned with Russia, "The Russian People," "Religion in Russia" and the "Russian Lullaby of Co-existence."

It is refreshing to read in print that children should be spanked in view of the fact that so much of today's writing has taken an opposite view. The chapter "To Spank or Not to Spank" will in the opinion of a lot of readers contain more common sense on control of the

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

I paid a little visit to the Legislative Assembly on Friday afternoon and all the time I was there I was conscious of a vague feeling of unrest.

Something seemed to be wrong. Something seemed to be missing.

It wasn't until I reached home last night, and was safely tucked into my trundle bed, that the solution reached me.

It came—as so many solutions do—in the relaxed period which is half-sleep and half-wakefulness.

Or perhaps it was all sleep. You can judge for yourself.

What is wrong with the Legislature is not the legislators, nor Mr. Speaker, nor the polish on the mace, nor the age of the pageboys.

What is wrong with the Legislature is the spectators.

And what is missing is spectator participation.

Everyone knows the game of baseball would never have reached its present popularity without the fans taking an active vocal, and sometimes physical, part.

What would baseball be without fans cheering wildly, booing shrilly, and making witty remarks such as "Kill the ump!"

By contrast, what do the fans in the legislative galleries do?

Nothing.

When a member of the opposition makes a stirring speech, inferring that the members on the government side are nothing but a bunch of stumble-bums, do the government fans in the gallery boo and throw peanuts? Do the opposition fans cheer wildly and say "hit 'im again. Sluggo, he's still breathing?"

No.

When Mr. Speaker rules an honorable member out of order, do the honorable member's supporters in the gallery scream "Waddya mean, out? He was safe by a city block."

No.

I deplore this situation, and think plans should be laid out to correct it before the next session.

It may take a little time to educate the legislative spectators into acting like true fans. The silent habit of years may not be easily broken.

Thus, for the first few sittings, it may be necessary for the sergeant-at-arms to equip various attendants with cards, such as those used in radio studios.

The cards, of course, would read: LAUGHTER, APPLAUSE, CHEERS, MIXED BOOS AND CATCALLS, and so on.

At a signal from the clerk of the House, the appropriate card would be held up.

After the fans were properly indoctrinated, the cards could be dispensed with, and the legislature would be a pleasure to attend. Even for a working reporter.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Victoria District Red Cross got off to a good start today on the road to its $80,000 target figure. Total at noon was $4,700. The drive will continue throughout March and will busy several hundred canvassers. The first total announced represents almost 6 per cent of the goal required.

Two men paid fines of $25 and costs each when convicted in Colwood RCMP court with driving without current drivers' licences. Alajb Singh Sangha, 2650 Prior, paid $25 and $4 costs; Harold Sydney Benson, 3856 East Sooke Road, paid $25 and $3.50 costs.

A fine of $50 and $3.50 costs were levied in Colwood RCMP court Friday when Robert Alan Randall, HMCS Naden, was convicted of careless driving on the early morning of Feb. 11.

Police said his car was in collision with a power pole on Sooke Road, causing total estimated damage of $1,300.

Police Chief John Blackstock said Friday his department would begin ticketing cars not bearing new licence plates in parked on a city street, whether or not the car was still being driven.

Such cars, if not in use by owners, must be parked off the public street or bear new plates, according to the law, he said.

Gordon Arthur Campbell, 3277 Wicklow, was fined $35 and $3.50 costs in Colwood RCMP court Friday when convicted of careless driving March 1 on Trans-Canada highway near Selwyn Road.

About $250 damage resulted when Campbell's car collided with the rear of another car.

An organizational meeting of Victoria West Golden Age Club will be held at the Community Hall next Wednesday at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Catherine Kelman, president of Esquimalt Golden Age Club and acting organizer of the new group, said all elderly people, men and women are invited to attend.

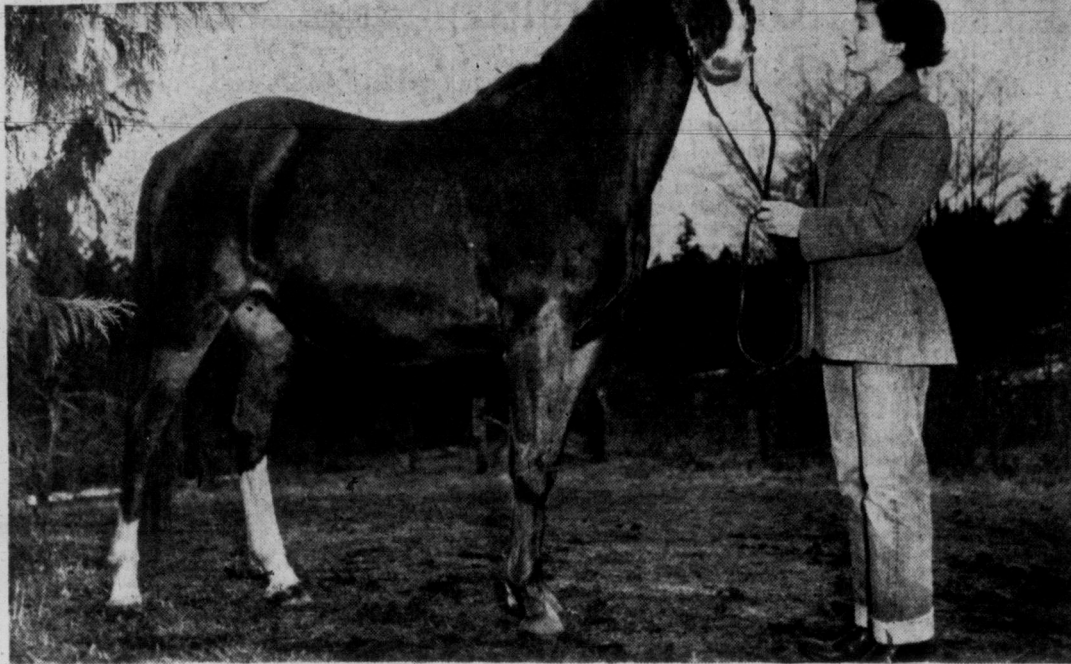

Designed as a social club, the members will meet twice a month for games, discussion and outings, similar to the Esquimalt and James Bay groups now functioning.

For operating a truck for hire without being holder of a chauffeur's licence, Edward Walter Kostenuk, 725 Caledonia, was fined $10 and $4 costs in Colwood RCMP court Friday.

A would-be burglar apparently was scared off before he completed his entry to a Safeway store at Michigan and Menzies sometime before 2:50 this morning.

The store's rear door was found jimmied by a police cruiser making a routine check. Lock and hasp were sprung but no entry made.

Reginald Seward, 1228 Effingham, was fined $35 in Oak Bay court Friday when he pleaded guilty to careless driving, and Roland Preston, HMCS Naden, was fined $25 for having no driver's licence.

ARISTOCRATS ON THE HOOF

Saanich Farm First To Breed Arab Strain

Vancouver Island's first Arabian horse breeding farm is being established in Saanich by a young Victoria couple active in show horse circles here for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Aln Thompson, Old West Saanich Road, recently acquired a prize 12-year-old registered Arabian mare, in foal to one of the finest studs in the United States, as a match for their six-year-old stallion, Asatill, which has taken many prizes in local shows.

The new mare, Judy, is out of Mabruk by Feyd and was purchased from Robert B. Field of the Bent River Arabian Ranch at Leavenworth, Wash.

She is in foal to Rapture of the Leavenworth ranch, known throughout the U.S. and considered by many as the finest Arab stud on the continent.

Judy, who has won many prizes for her true Arab beauty at shows in various parts of the western U.S., is due to foal in May.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson, who have been breeding horses since 1948, are active in the Saanich Arabian Horse Club and the British Columbia Arabian Horse Association. They have also been successful in breeding other breeds of horses.

New Check-Up Won for Zucco

Mrs. Bea Zucco's sit-down strike on the steps of the legislative buildings has won her TB stricken husband a new compensation board medical examination.

Last Monday, Mrs. Zucco sat on the building steps to force the government to action on her husband's case. With her were her three children.

Jack Zucco will have his case reopened to determine whether he is entitled to a silicosis pension. Mrs. Zucco said he contracted tuberculosis as a result of the silicosis—a mining disease.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said Mr. Zucco already has been found to have "minimum qualifications" for a compensation award.

City building permit has been issued for construction of a $55,000 church building at Fernwood and Cedar Hill Road.

The new premises will be known as Oaklands Gospel Chapel and will replace a building now located on Cedar Hill Road.

Contractors will be Luney Bros. and Hamilton, and it was designed by a Vancouver architect. Construction will be two-storey frame and stucco with a floor area of 88 by 61 feet.

MLAs OPPOSE HANGING

B.C. legislature Friday went on record as opposing hanging.

A resolution urging the federal government to abolish capital punishment was endorsed in the dying minutes of the session.

A voice vote only was taken. There were no dissenters. Resolution was submitted by William Moore (CCF-Comox).

Another resolution called for a comprehensive study of the effect of rainmaking machines in B.C., a topic raised frequently during the session.

A resolution submitted by E. E. Winch (CCF-Burnaby) urging federal provincial sharing of the cost of providing for low-rental housing for old age pensioners was unanimously endorsed.

Crescent Leads Esquimalt Ships To Caribbean

Led by HMCS Crescent on her first operational voyage since being modernized at HMC Dockyard, four units of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron left Esquimalt at 10 a.m. today, bound for the Caribbean Sea via the Panama Canal.

With Crescent are the frigates Jonquiere, New Glasgow, and St. Therese. They will be joined in the Panama Canal Zone by the destroyer Cayuga, which is to sail next Thursday.

In the Caribbean, the Esquimalt-based ships will join in fleet manoeuvres with 11 surface units of the Atlantic command and two Royal Navy submarines, based at Halifax.

In the fleet will be Canada's largest ship, the aircraft carrier Magnificent, on what may be her last voyage before being replaced by the new carrier Bonaventure, now fitting out at Belfast. The cruiser Quebec, well-known on this coast, will also take part in the manoeuvres.

The west coast ships will meet Quebec at Colon, Panama, and sail for St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, March 18, reaching there March 24. They are due back at Esquimalt May 10.

Mr. Crombie and Mr. Mielen stressed that only the impatient and the gullible could be taken in by such dishonesty.

'Sharp' Repairs Men Gyp TV Owners

By PHIL LEE
Times TV Critic

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the president of the local chapter of the Radio Electronics Technicians Association today warned citizens against unscrupulous "after-hour" TV repairs.

Hector Crombie, the chamber's secretary-manager, and Vince Mielen, RETA president, said it is the impatient viewer who falls prey to dishonest servicemen.

When his set falls after normal hours and stores are closed down for the night or over the weekend, the impatient viewer hunts up the name of an "after-hour" repairman in the want ad section of his newspaper. Before the night is out he has been charged anywhere from $29 to $60 for some comparatively minor repairs.

TAKEN AWAY
Seldom are the repairs carried out in the home. More often than not the "after-hour" man tells the TV set owner the set will have to be taken down to the repair plant to be fixed.

The viewer, impatient to be back at his viewing, agrees on the understanding that he will have the set back within the next hour or two.

In one instant a woman was charged $37 for the replacement of a burnt wire. In another, a viewer was told there was a leak in his set's transformer and it would cost approximately $30 to have it replaced. However, when the set was returned, the bill had been upped to around $60 because "there was more wrong with your set than we thought."

GULLIBLE
Mr. Crombie and Mr. Mielen stressed that only the impatient and the gullible could be taken in by such dishonesty.

"It isn't as though a TV set is a necessity like a refrigerator or a deep freeze," said Mr. Mielen. "Surely a television set owner can wait until the next morning to contact either the firm which sold him his set or

Road Row Ends With No Report

Pledge to Call Tenders Satisfactory to Liberals

The legislature's mining committee, probing charges of improprieties and laxity of construction on the Stewart-Cassiar road, adjourned Friday without making a report.

"It's all over," commented chairman Tom Bate (SC-Vancouver Point Grey). Committee members met in camera for a short session immediately before the House sat to prorogue, and decided against reporting to the legislature.

"The government has announced that tenders will be called for every penny of work on the road in future, and that's good enough for us," said a Liberal spokesman.

The Stewart-Cassiar project was one of the major issues of the session. It resulted in charges of "appalling" food wastage, political patronage and poor construction.

SOMMER'S FRIENDS
Contractor was Wade and Wells Ltd. of Trail, principals of which are long-time friends of former mines minister R. E. Sommers, under whose jurisdiction the project was undertaken.

The firm held a no-tender, cost-plus and machine rental contract.

Kenneth Kiernan, newly-appointed mines minister, told the House Thursday that in future every penny of work done on the mining assistance road will be on a tender basis.

The legislature approved an expenditure of $1,500,000 on the far-northern road this season. It will provide a link between rich mineral areas and tidewater.

THE NEW JUSTICE, born in Calgary in 1895, is the first native Albertan to be named to the supreme court of Canada. He fills a vacancy created by the recent death of Mr. Justice J. W. Estey.

Mr. Justice Nolan's mother has been a resident of Victoria for many years. He is also the nephew of Miss Florence Lee, who is living at his mother's residence, and is the brother-in-law of Brig. G. A. McCarter, 3986 Telegraph Bay.

WAR TRIALS
The justice was deputy judge advocate-general at army headquarters in Ottawa from 1940 to 1945. He was Canada's prosecutor before the International Military Tribunal for the trial of war criminals at Tokyo, Japan, from 1946 to 1948.

A former member of the senate of the University of Alberta, Mr. Justice Nolan was educated at Calgary public schools, the University of Alberta and Oxford University.

He received his legal education at Oxford, winning his BA in honors jurisprudence in 1921 and his master's degree the following year. He is a member of the Canadian Bar Association's committee on insurance law.

His appointment restored the supreme court to its full strength of nine.

Smoke Aplenty, But Damage Small In Ship Blaze
Fire on a ship moored in the inner harbor Friday evening sent a pall of smoke over the waterfront but caused little damage.

The fire broke out on the after deck of Island Spruce, a former oil tanker being converted by Island Tug & Barge Ltd. as a self-dumping log barge.

Welders' torches had been used on the ship earlier in the day, and it is believed a spark smoldered unnoticed until fanned by the wind.

Island Tug workmen are stripping off the ship's superstructure preparatory to conversion.

Company officials praised prompt work by Victoria fire department in extinguishing the blaze before it had a chance to spread.

INCOME TAX ADVICE

Gifts to Charity Can Be Deducted

By GORDON HOLMES
Member of the Institute of Chartered Accountants
Donations to charities that are recognized by the government are allowable deductions from your net income for purposes of making your income tax less.

Charities recognized by the government fall into the following general classifications: Relief of poverty, advancement of religion, advancement of education, other purposes beneficial to the community as a whole and analogous to the three other purposes stated.

(Note: Subscriptions to World's Tallest Totem Pole are not allowable.)
The receipt you receive for your charitable donation usually states whether or not it is allowable for income tax purposes.

The income tax department sets a ceiling as to the amount which a taxpayer can deduct from his net-taxable income. The ceiling is 10 per cent of his net income.

Here is an example of the benefits of hospital and medical payments and charitable donations used as deductions from net income:

|----------------------------------|------------|
| Income (salary) | $3,000 |
| Interest from bonds | 30 |
| Net income | $3,030 |
| Exemptions— | |
| Personal (married with baby son) | $2,150 |
| Charitable donations | 15 |
| Medical expenses— | |
| Hospital | $100 |
| Doctor | 150 |
| | $250 |
| Less 3% of income | $ 90.90 |
| Total exemptions | $2,340.90 |
| Taxable income— | $789.10 |
| $3,030 less $2,340.90 | |

Tax thereon (from table on the back of employee's income tax guide attached to T1 short form)—$113.00

Normal tax on this income, without the charitable and medical deductions, would be $140. Something very close to this figure would have been deducted at the source by the employer, leaving the taxpayer a rebate of about $27.

From this, it can easily be seen how important and valuable it is to the taxpayer to keep track of deductions. The taxpayer who gets his return in now will have his rebate, if any, before the big rush starts in April. The district office here has sent out some refunds already.

(Monday — Personal Exemptions)

ASK The TIMES

Q—Whose portraits are on Canadian $100 bills and $1,000 bills? J.F.

A—In the present issue of Bank of Canada notes the likeness of Queen Elizabeth is printed on both the $100 and $1,000 denominations. This issue is dated Ottawa, 1954, and citizens recall the going into circulation of the bills. It is stated, however, that more bills of the last previous issue are still in circulation than notes of the present issue. This condition is expected to continue for some time. The old bills, which will be honored as long as they exist, bear portraits of Sir John A. Macdonald on the $100 denomination and Sir Wilfrid Laurier on the $1,000 notes.

Q—After whom was Chambers Street, Victoria, named? W.S.

A—No documentary material is available, but it is believed it bears the name of Walter Chambers and his family. Chambers, who was a half-brother of A. J. Sayward, came to Victoria in 1858.

Anyone wishing to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

Double Lives

Victoria's fashion models are well-known for beauty, grace and charm. They appear every season in the city's fashion showings, and they are seen frequently in newspaper fashion pictures.

Every style-conscious woman can recognize them on the street, but few realize that local models lead double lives. As there are not enough fashion showings in the city of Victoria to keep them occupied as full-time professional models, they busy themselves with other careers that include hobbies and families.

To give you a look "behind the scenes" at some of Victoria's fashion models and their other pastimes, we have selected five well-known mannequins to photograph and write about from a personal viewpoint. Note... the clothes they wear are their own!

Newly-married bliss? Model, Ina, and husband, Jim Harford, agree that it is, even if there are dishes to be done. Besides being a competent secretary, Ina is an avid baseball fan. Reason... Jim is catcher on Farmer's Construction team, and for several years played professional ball. As Ina Bain, she began her career as the Junior Miss of the fashion show, and still continues to model junior miss fashions. Her diminutive figure and youthful smile provide refreshing moments in every show she models in. Mr. and Mrs. Harford live at 3010 Quadra Street.

A young model with a bright future is 21-year-old Pat Gannon, 1040 Craigdarroch Road. Times Fashion Editor, Nona Damaske, has taken a personal interest in Pat's career, believing that, given the opportunity, Pat could reach the top... and that means, New York. Solarium Junior League work takes up much of Pat's spare time. She is pictured, above, planning for the league's "Polles of 1956." Convener of talent for the show, she is presently concerned with arrangements for a "talent party" at the Royal Victoria Yacht Club on March 19. Pat received her education in Victoria at St. Margaret's and Victoria College.

A fine sense of color and design is reflected in Barbara Hindson's two careers as a model (she is considered one of Victoria's best-dressed women), and as an interior decorator. Barbara's favorite shades are the browns, ranging from white beige through rich rusts to deepest sepia. She believes home furnishings should be chosen because they feature favorite colors of the people concerned, rather than colors being pushed by a current trend. Barbara Hindson has dabbled in interior decoration for several years, but just recently "turned professional" when she added her natural flair for design to her husband's business of upholstery and draperies.

"A model mother" could well be the term applied to Doris Usher. She and her husband, Fred, well-known Victoria radio personality, and three children, Maureen, Ronnie and Brian, have a lot of fun in their home on Dunlevy Road. There's a big rumpus room in the basement with a fireplace for roasting hotdogs and lots of room for dancing and games... and the Usher family make good use of it. Here, Doris gives son, Brian, a few pointers in dancing, while Fred provides a guitar accompaniment, and Maureen and Ronnie look on.

A grandmother with a fashion career is Mrs. J. Crossley, 1611 Clawthorpe Road. For the past three years, Mrs. Crossley has modelled "Mrs. Exeter" fashions for the mature woman. Stylish woolen suits with furs and ensembles for "the mother of the bride" are her specialties. Mrs. Crossley also works as a sales clerk in a local wool department... and still finds time to knit her own dresses and suits. She is pictured with her three grandchildren, Margie Lynne Love, David Love and Donny Frenette.

In Step With Style

By Nona Damaske

"Fresh . . .
As a Spring Tonic!"

This smart silk ensemble by Leslie Fay can be worn sweetly with its own curved bolero, or spicily without it. The dress is a sheath with jewel pinned neckline and capped sleeves. The rich carnal shade fabric is scattered with a pattern of white dots outlined in black.

The problems of women who wish to look smart and are willing to follow style trends are also the problems of designers, manufacturers and fashion writers.

I think one of the most repetitious comments of women attending fashion showings is "Oh, yes, there are many lovely things for the tall, slender, perfect size 12 and 14, but what about those who are not tall and willowy?"

We all know that some figure proportions may be changed by diet and exercise but our height is ours to make the best of for all our days. There are many, many women who are under five-foot-five and are short-waisted.

The Leslie Fay label has been a boon to the American shopper with the briefer figure for many years and now the first Canadian Leslie Fay collection makes its appearance.

I attended the initial showing in Victoria some weeks ago and although I was very impressed, I reserved my judgement until I could see the garments in the stores. I wanted to see if the delivered dresses were as good looking as the samples and I wanted to see them on someone whose figure proportions I knew exactly.

The dresses have arrived, the fabrics are lovely, the styling is smart, and for the girl who is five-foot-five and under and short in body, they will solve her problem.

Sizes are from 10 to 20 and there are styles for the gay young gal and the serene mature woman.

A wool-like fabric called Nuvron is shown in two tailored styles. Brown and white hounds-tooth check is smartly styled with a choir boy collar, brown taffeta neck bow and double-breasted button effect. The same fabric, only this time in navy and white, is shown in a shirt-waist style with a sparkling white linen dickerie.

An exciting tonic for a winter weary wardrobe is the selection of darker prints which can be worn right now. Moss green silk, splashed with black is lovely in a dress with intricate folds in the back of the skirt to simulate loose panels. The popular combination of black and brown is shown in a sheath with a wide scoop neckline and Bertha collar.

Several Empire sheaths come with belts but are so very much smarter without them. Trim two-piece silk suits have always been well received and there are two which are particularly attractive. One is in Capri blue silk shantung with cross-over ties at the neckline and the other is very simply styled in cafe au lait silk with a small neat pattern in black and white. For more dressy occasions there is a pretty cocktail dress made in a black silk space print. The dress is the ever popular princess style with a flattering wide neckline bound in black velvet.

All the new fashion features are shown in this new Leslie Fay collection for the woman who is five-foot-five and under and has a moderate fashion budget.

If any of you taller-than-average gals have read this far do not lose heart, we should soon have some good news for you, too!

You will slip off your coat with pride when you wear this pert Leslie Fay model. Pure silk printed shantung in Capri blue is designed with side pleats for moderate fullness and an oval neckline, cuffed and jewelled for romantic flattery.

... for the Small Woman

Who is Short-Waisted

Leslie Fay has chosen the subtle shades of a spring garden... pale blue, mauve and green for this magic crepe de dress. A face-flattering crisp white gandy bow sets off the basque bodice.

New Nylon Beater Blades Revolutionize Food Mixers

By PENNY SAVER

Will you look what they've done to the old-fashioned mixer? Revolutionary and progressive are two adjectives aptly applied to this whirl-clip action mixer. It has nylon blades and pinion gears that will withstand heat up to 300 degrees. That means that even boiling liquids and substances may be whipped easily and without damage to the machine. With this action, caused by new-shaped blades, there's no splattering. The mixer has a chrome-plated drive gear and frame, and stainless-steel rods and support. A natural position handle for either right or left hands gives a better grip and balance, resulting in tireless mixing. It's easy to clean, too. Plastic grip handles are black, yellow or red, to match your kitchen colors. Each costs $2.49.

Mixers with the same new properties and action also come with enclosed workings in the same colors as the handles. Gears and drives are protected from liquids and food. These very attractive ones cost $6.50.

While I'm telling you about kitchen things, I'll give you a tip about the magnetic knife racks. Two rows of permanently magnetic metal are set in kitchen-color plastic. Just lay the blades against the metal, and there they stay. These magnetic racks are selling at $1.98. For kitchen, any room in the house, or for the office, you'll find constant use for the telephone chin holders that I saw. Many offices provide them, and secretaries, receptionists, and all people who use phones for their work know how handy they are. These holders clip on the grip of desk phone receivers, and by tucking it between your shoulder and chin, you can have your hands clear to write. These effort-saving devices aren't confined to offices, though, 'cause for $1.25 you may buy one at a local store. When you're checking off that shopping list or jotting down a phone message at home, you'll really appreciate this hard-rubber helper.

I can't resist telling you about the very good buy you can have in wool jersey blouses. Whether it's for office wear or an evening of dancing, there's just the blouse for you. Regularly priced at $3.95, they're now selling at $3 each. Blue, tan, kelly, burnt maroon, red, grey, white, black, rust, light green and avocado are just some of the shades available. Most have the comfortable three-quarter sleeves. For daytime there are high mandarin or round necklines, and for after-five, a deep V. Call me at 2-8131 and I'll tell you where to find any of the items mentioned.

Neglected Family Needs Professional Counseling

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

When a husband refuses to assume his responsibilities and makes his wife and children suffer, the time has come to put the problem in the hands of a professional.

Hurlock

"Q.—I am 20 years old, married to man of 21. We have a four-month-old baby and I am now expecting another baby. I don't want this child because my husband goes out night after night, dressed fit to kill, runs up bills and never pays for anything. If it weren't for my parents buying clothes for me and the baby, we would have nothing to wear.

"My husband has wrecked two new cars inside of two years, but gets another before the last one is paid for. We owe for furniture, car, gasoline, groceries and the clothing he buys for himself. I told my doctor about my situation but he tells me not to worry.

"Our minister has tried to talk to my husband but he only laughs at him. What am I to do? I feel like putting an end to it all but then I think of my darling baby girl who would be left all alone with a father who doesn't pay any attention to her."

—M. P.

(A)—For the sake of your baby and the baby you are carrying, you must try not to worry too much about this situation. However, this does not mean you should sit down, fold your hands, and hope things will turn out all right in the end. I can assure you they won't correct themselves.

You cannot do anything yourself to improve this situation. It has gone beyond your control. If your husband won't listen to your minister and won't assume his legal responsibilities to you and the baby, the time has come to take legal action.

Ask your minister to make arrangements for you to see the domestic relations judge in your district. Then tell the judge how your husband spends money, pays no bills, drives recklessly enough to smash up two cars in two years, and is out every night. I think it would be a good idea to have your mother accompany you when you see the judge so she can tell how she has had to help you financially.

The judge will require your husband to take proper care of you and the children. He will likewise require him to pay the bills he owes. In addition, he will send your husband to a marriage counselor who will try to make your husband realize that a married man has legal obligations he cannot shirk.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Perfect Posture, Massage May Erase Chin Wrinkles

Q.—"Could you please write something about wrinkles under the chin?"

A.—Overweight adds to the likelihood of wrinkles in this location. Poor posture is one of the main reasons for this line. Duck your chin down into your neck and see what happens. If you carry your head this way a lot of the time you are certain to get a line under the chin, especially if you have a double chin. Remember whenever possible to hold the head so that the chin is parallel to the floor.

Also, massage along the line using your forefinger in a rotary motion as you move it along the line under the chin. First tip your head backward and then massage.

It seems that I should correct a wrong impression which I must have given in this column some time ago when I printed a letter from a young girl who was most unhappy about a very large nose. I have had many letters as a result. Here is an excerpt from one of them:

"I read your column today about the young girl with the big nose and I strongly disagree with you. I can't tell you what a change plastic surgery has made in my life.

"From the time I was in grade school I was always self-conscious about my very ugly nose. When I was 16 we were able to have it fixed and it has entirely changed my life. We are far from wealthy but the cost was within our means.

"I hope this girl's mother has a change of heart. Plastic surgery is a miracle for which I will always be thankful."

Plastic surgery is indeed a miracle! In my answer to the girl, an answer which many readers took exception to, I warned that a young girl often thinks of some feature as disfiguring when actually others do not see it that way at all.

Teen-agers are apt to be very critical of their appearance and to exaggerate any imperfection. If the condition is really disfiguring I am all for having it changed. I feel the same way about the teen-ager who is overweight. This should be corrected with scientific reducing because such handiwork can do lasting damage to the personality and approach to life. Years afterwards the repercussions may still linger in maturity.

Q.—"Is a hot or cold foot bath more relaxing before going to sleep when your feet are tired?"

A.—Most people like alternate hot and cold foot baths, followed by massage with a softening lotion or cream.

TO MARRY THIS MONTH

Mr. and Mrs. Edward O. Thomas, 1760 Denman Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Frances Elaine, to Mr. William A. Abbott, son of Mr. A. H. Abbott, Prospect Lake. The wedding will take place Saturday, March 31 at 8 p.m. in First Baptist Church, with Rev. C. R. Easter officiating.

Miss Thomas has asked her sister, Mrs. D. Miller, to be matron of honor; Mrs. D. Wilkie and Mrs. K. Kightly, bridesmaids, and another sister, Miss Adrienne Thomas, junior bridesmaid. Mr. D. Wilkie will be best man, and ushering will be Mr. R. Casner and Mr. R. Abbott. (Photos by Cheron.)

Woman's Prerogative to Change Mind Results In Dynamic Organization 20 Years Later

OTTAWA (CP)—Members of an Ottawa women's group lit 21 candles on an anniversary cake and chuckled over a feminine foible that backfired, resulting in the founding of their dynamic organization.

It was women's proverbial mind-changing habit that produced the Ottawa Women's Forum one January day in 1935. A handful of housewives met to form a book club, changed their minds and decided to do something about becoming better citizens.

They wanted reliable information on current issues; at that time the depression concerned them. They wanted to be able to make their own decision on issues.

So the small group of 15 women began by studying various government setups in the world. Parking their children with a baby sitter hired by the forum, they launched an organization that grew to 60 members within the first year. Each year since the membership has averaged 75.

Meeting bi-monthly at the YWCA from October until May, members at first prepared their own papers and then discussed them as a group.

"But we were choosing pretty heavy discussion topics," said Mrs. Palmer Burgess, a charter member and the forum's second president. They then began to invite guests to speak on specific subjects.

Mrs. J. R. Beattie, president, says that from its beginning the forum has promoted a better citizenship program and maintained its objective of hearing all sides of any issue and allowing membership expression through questions and discussion.

USEFUL PROJECTS

Projects, as well as speaking programs, have been included in

YWCA Club Calendar

Monday—Blue Triangle Club, 7 p.m., folk festival rehearsal.

Tuesday—Representatives of all clubs, 8 p.m., to hear William H. Lewis, Victoria Film Council, speak on operation of movie projector, small club room.

Wednesday—Empire Social Club, regular business meeting.

Thursday—Mount View Y-Teens, 7:30 p.m., party for members and ex-members, large club room. Cardinals softball team, 7 p.m., catching and pitching practice in recreation room.

Debutantes to Make Bows at Vancouver's Military Ball

VANCOUVER—Debutantes wishing to be presented to His Honor, the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross, should submit their applications to the military ball committee by April 1st, it was announced by Mrs. George Kitching, chairman of the ladies' committee of the military ball.

The ball, one of the outstanding social events in Vancouver will be held this year on the fourth of May at the Vancouver Hotel.

The only stipulation to those presented, it was pointed out, is that all participating must be sponsored by fathers or close relatives who have served in the forces of the Queen.

Mrs. Kitching also announced plans for a tea to be held the latter part of April for debutantes and their mothers when Mrs. Daphne Ibbotson of Vancouver will instruct the young ladies in proper procedure for this important occasion. The committee, headed by Mrs. G. Kitching and assisted by Mrs. D. M. Clark, is composed of the following: Mrs. Clarence Wallace, Mrs. H. F. G. Letson, Mrs. S. Ingelwood, Mrs. F. B. Brown, Mrs. H. R. Fullerton, Mrs. H. S. Foley, Mrs. W. C. Woodward, Mrs. F. Ronald Graham, Mrs. J. P. Fell, Mrs. Sherwood Lett, Mrs. H. R. MacMillan, Mrs. J. A. Clark, Mrs. L. H. Leeson, Mrs. N. C. Sherman and Mrs. H. A. Simmons.

the forum's activities. Mrs. A. S. Whiteley, a past president and a charter member, said that in 1940 the forum took the initial step toward the lowering of milk prices in Ottawa and pressed for cash-and-carry milk prices.

She said the forum also took the first step in advocating quality standards for clothing which ultimately resulted in the passing of the Canada Standards Act.

Usually, she said, the forum supports local or national projects judged worthwhile by its members. Mrs. John Levenaar, immediate past president, is particularly pleased with the part the forum plays in the community.

Wife of a Netherlands' embassy official, she said she is "grateful to the forum which helped me improve my English and taught me so much about Canada."

"When you've got questions to ask you soon lose self-consciousness about using a new language in a strange country," she said.

"STIMULATING" MEETS

Few new Canadians are forum members. But Mrs. H. J. Von Baeyer, who came to Ottawa from Switzerland about five years ago, attends meetings regularly and has served as a councillor.

To her, meetings are "stimulating, informative and wonderful opportunities to meet Canadians and learn about their way of life."

Canadian members agree that they also learn a good deal about Canada.

In the current program on the arts in Canada, they have heard experts on the theatre, films, radio and television, Canadian designs and the National Gallery.

The spring agenda includes discussions of ballet, Eskimo handicrafts, Canadian literature and music.

YMCA Auxiliary Plans Wool Drive

At the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the YMCA, Mrs. Donald MacDale, chairman of the house committee, gave details of a plan to collect old woollens to be sent to a well-known woollen mill to be made up into needed blankets. She urged auxiliary members to gather old woollens for the project.

Plans were made for the annual spring coffee party in mid-May and Mrs. W. F. Munro and Mrs. J. A. Finlayson were named co-conveners of the affair with Mrs. H. Fielder and Mrs. W. M. Davidson in charge of refreshments.

Mrs. H. L. Campbell presided and following the business session, a successful rummage sale was held.

Adventure for Customer Receiving New Permanent

A revolution has taken place in the beauty industry—a new permanent wave solution called Rose Wave, which contains neither ammonia nor peroxide. The great feature of the new solution is that it is Rose Fragrant. Added to that, it is so gentle that the scalp does not smart and it produces a soft but firm curl.

All hair is tested by Microscope to determine which strength of solution to use. French Jasmine Shampoo is used. There is nothing finer, it cuts acid, feeds the hair, helps it to curl. Rose Wave has been introduced by Marion Kerwin, Cold Wave Award Winner, De Luxe Beauty Salon. An introductory offer of 25% discount on all permanents. 1405 Douglas Street, Downtown, Bank of Toronto Building. Phone 2-75 40.

Rules for Good Picture Given by Photographer

TORONTO (CP)—Montreal's Gabriel Desmarais, who has photographed such notables as Eleanor Roosevelt and actress Michelle Morgan, says the average woman worries too much about having her picture taken.

Men usually step into a studio, get it over with and step out.

"But women worry about their hair, worry about their dress, and worry about their make-up," said young Mr. Desmarais. Here to photograph CBC personalities, the slightly-built photographer, who said he is better known as "Gaby," took time out to pass a few words of advice to women.

SHOULD BE CASUAL

"If they would approach the idea casually instead of making it a life-and-death matter, their pictures would turn out better," Gaby said. "After all, the worst that can happen if the picture isn't good is to have it taken over again."

Having twice travelled through Europe, where he also photographed Anthony Eden, Gaby said if women must worry they should do so before they set foot in a photographer's studio.

They should have their hair done several days before their picture appointment. Done on the same day it looked too artificial.

Clothing in solid, dark shades is most complimentary. Light shades detract from a woman's skin tones and since each shade produces a different tone, too many colors could destroy a picture's unity. Styles should be simple.

Make-up should be kept to a minimum. In fact, the only beauty aid Gaby said he likes a model to wear lipstick.

"And please, ladies, don't try to give the photographer advice," Gaby urged. "When a woman says 'I think this is my most photogenic side,' or 'my mouth is my best feature,' it can infuriate a photographer."

"If he's worth his title a photographer will have his own ideas about what the best features are and what should be done with them."

Return From California Trip

Hon. R. W. Mayhew and Mrs. Mayhew returned to their Beach drive home on Thursday evening from a motor trip to Hemet and Palm Springs, California. Last Sunday the Mayhews gave a luncheon for a group of Victorians holidaying at the same resort in Hemet. Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. W. G. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Munro, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rowell, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Corley, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McGregor, all of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hall of Hemet. Mrs. George Bucklin, Mrs. Logan Mayhew's mother, was also a guest of Hon. and Mrs. Mayhew during their stay in the south.

New Home in Prince George

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. C. Black and son, Jamie, 1160 St. Louis street, are leaving Victoria in three weeks to make their home in Prince George, B.C., where Mr. Black has been appointed manager of the Bank of Montreal. He is at present assistant manager of the main branch, Bank of Montreal, in Victoria.

Home After Extended Trip

Prof. and Mrs. Godfrey Burr returned to their Sea View Terrace home Friday after a two-month trip which took them to Quebec, to Georgia and Louisiana and California. They visited friends in Montreal, P.Q.; London, Ont. and Rome, Ga. before traveling to Santa Barbara and San Francisco, Calif.

Shrine Band Annual Ball

A no-host dinner party was held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon S. Wismer, Gillespie Place, prior to the ninth annual Shrine Band Ball, which was held at the Crystal Garden. Thirteen couples attended.

Twelve couples arrived Friday afternoon aboard the yacht "Deer Leap" from Port Angeles to attend the ball. They are members of the Peninsula Shrine Club in Port Angeles.

In the party with the illustrious Potentate of Gizeh Temple, Mr. W. Hudson and Mrs. Hudson, were Mr. Harry Borgerson, Oriental guide, and Mrs. Borgerson of Vancouver; Mr. George Ford, marshal, and Mrs. Ford; Mr. Ted Porter, president of the band, and Mrs. Porter; Mr. John White, president of the Shrine Club, and his mother, Mrs. Ted White.

Others attending included Mr. and Mrs. Doug Inkster, in a party of eight; Mr. and Mrs. Harper Bakie of Courtenay, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hayes, with 22 friends.

Attended Sidney Wedding

Among the guests who attended the Hinchcliffe-Curl wedding recently in St. Paul's United Church, Sidney, were Mr. James Renney, Mr. G. Chester, Mr. George Goldie Sr., Miss Mary Goldie and Mr. and Mrs. P. Dawson of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lemon, Fulford Harbor; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Georgeson, Port Washington, B.C. and Mr. and Mrs. R. Morgan, Shawanigan Lake.

Round of Shower Parties

The accounting division of the Department of Health and Welfare honored bride-elect, Miss Joan Stewart, with a kitchen shower recently at the home of Miss Margaret Callander, Richmond Road. An airplane in compliment to the groom-elect, who is in the Air Force, held the many gifts. A corsage of pink roses and heather was presented to the guest of honor, while her mother, Mrs. N. C. Stewart, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. R. Fraser, received yellow daffodils and heather. Guests enjoyed a supper at the refreshment table centred with a pastel shower cake. Guests were Mrs. J. A. Franklin, Mrs. R. S. Goddard, Mrs. T. C. Ridley, Mrs. C. Owen, Mrs. J. Lee, Mrs. E. Reesor, Mrs. R. Clarke, Misses E. Naylor, Pat Avery, Frances Somers, Evelyn Matthews, Mary Smith and D. Graves.

Mrs. G. T. Hatcher and Mrs. G. Hall were co-hostesses at the home of the former at Langford Lake, when they held a miscellaneous shower for Miss Stewart. White carnations were in the bride-elect's corsage, while Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Fraser received pink carnations. Guests included Mrs. D. Spence, Mrs. H. C. Hughes, Mrs. H. W. McKenzie, Mrs. George MacGregor, Mrs. G. W. Baird, Mrs. J. A. McDonald, Mrs. G. Whitehead, Mrs. Innes Cooper, Mrs. J. Franklin, Mrs. B. Gordon, Mrs. K. Gilham, Mrs. R. Beaton, Mrs. D. Arthur, Mrs. J. Moseley, Mrs. A. F. Bayles, Misses Gina Hall, Maxine Fraser, Terry Hatcher, Wendy Hatcher and Joy Gilham.

Miss Stewart was honored by three aunts, Mrs. H. L. Smith, Mrs. W. E. Corry and Mrs. S. H. Grist, at a miscellaneous shower held at the Cedar Hill Crossroad, home of Mrs. Smith. The guest of honor's cousins, Cathy Oliver, Corrine and Geri Ann Corry, Keith Rathgader and Daryl Corry, brought in the gifts which were concealed in a blue box decorated with a plane. Present were Mr. and Mrs. R. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Corry, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Corry, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Corry, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Franklin and Dick, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Oliver and Margaret, Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. B. Peterson, Mr. H. L. Smith, Mr. W. E. Corry, Mr. S. H. Grist and Mr. Michael Corry.

Arriving From Toronto

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lockhart will arrive from Toronto Wednesday for a three-week visit in this city. While in Victoria they will be guests of Mrs. Sutherland Brown, Bowker Place, and will visit with their son, Mr. J. A. Lockhart, who is living here.

For Ennaged Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bigelow entertained at their home on Runnymede avenue Friday evening with a cocktail party for Miss Gail O'Meara and Mr. John Gatehouse, whose wedding will take place on St. Patrick's Day. About 80 guests attended.

Flying to Hawaii

A Dinner Party

Members of the Victoria Home Economics Association gathered for dinner at the Princess Mary, Friday evening, when guest of honor was Miss Corinne Terlice, director of nutrition for the Bakery Foods Foundation of Canada at Toronto. Present were Mrs. Nova Graham, Miss Florence Bonzell, Miss C. M. Robertson, Miss B. Rogers, Miss Muriel Johnson, Miss Doris Noble, Miss Mary O'Brien and Miss Alma Innes. An informal meeting followed at the Empress Hotel, Miss Terlice has been visiting Victoria clubs and groups, and left this morning for Vancouver, where she will begin a visiting tour as she travels back to Toronto.

At the close of the evening, refreshments were served by the hostess, with Miss Gladys Hewlings presiding at the coffee table.

Officers Named at Meeting Held in the Centre Friday

Annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Victoria branch of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held on Friday morning at the Centre. The president, Mrs. E. Watling, presided in the chair.

Mrs. E. Watling, president of the Victoria White Cane Club, attended and gave an interesting address on the activities and interests of this group.

Annual reports for the year were submitted. The president outlined events and work done during the year and conveners announced that radios were being supplied and repaired when necessary, and that visiting was being carried out. The latter project being most important as the blind derive much pleasure from visitors and automobile drives.

Election of officers resulted as follows: president, Mrs. Edward Brand; secretary, Miss Lottie Bowron; treasurer, Mrs. J. L.

BETTER FOLD UP

If you'd like to make a bet that you can't lose next time you are at a party, try this stunt:
Hand someone a small sheet of paper — writing or tabloid paper will do — and ask him or her to fold it eight times. Maximum number of folds the sheet of paper will take is six or seven; then the person doing it will be stuck, for the paper simply won't be manageable. On the eighth fold, the paper will reach 128 thicknesses. No matter how large a piece of paper is used, it cannot be folded as many as eight times. Try it with this sheet of newspaper if you are skeptical.

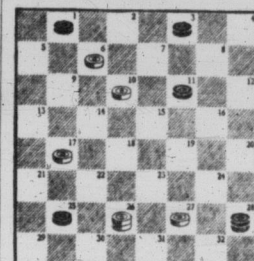

SUMMING UP

It's easier to add up numbers when you see them before you than when you have to think about them and then write them down. For instance:
Suppose there are couples having the surname Hundred, Thousand and Million. Suppose that in one week babies are born to Mr. and Mrs. A. Million, Mr. and Mrs. B. Million and Mr. and Mrs. C. Million—three Million babies to three families in one week!
In the same week a pair of twins are born to Mr. and Mrs. A. Thousand, and triplets are born to Mr. and Mrs. A. Hundred.

Now try this test:
1. To the number of children in the families mentioned above (three Million babies, a pair of twins, and triplets) add one more than ninety thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine.
2. To this sum add a billion divided by a million. An American billion and an English billion are different, so we'll specify the latter.
3. Now add half of six dozen, and a half dozen dozen. Then include thirteen gross divided by a baker's dozen.
4. Finally, add the difference between twice twenty-five and twice five and twenty.

What is the total sum?
What would you like to bet?

IT'S YOUR MOVE

DOTOGRAPH TEST FOR JUNIORS

What can you draw to complete this timely picture? To find out, draw connecting lines from dot 1 to dot 2, etc., to dot 30. Where two numbers appear beside one dot, use the dot for both. Afterwards, you may wish to color the drawing.

CRYPTO-QUOTE

According to one old saying, March is a month that comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb. Another old saying makes the following comment: presented here in the form of a substitution cryptogram:
SOZGV NRJ RZLL YKTN ILZ NRJ JRQTL ACQFZ JRQTL NRJ SRRQZ GQKZ

OHL OFF JRZLTHRV NT RNSLJ QM FOTHILZ

Clue: The first word is the name of the month involved: March. In this type, crypt, of course, the same letter substitutes for the same letter throughout.

Reclamation Begins For Frozen Garden

By JACK BEASTALL

Losses suffered last November seem to have dampened the spring urge to start gardening, or maybe it is because we cannot decide where to begin.

One thing is certain. We have to make a start some time, and since March is here we may as well begin now.

The herbaceous perennials are the one bright spot in our browned-off gardens. The new growth which has appeared on them during the past week is a sure sign that the time has come for digging, dividing, and replanting.

While a big clump of any perennial gives the gardener a lot of pleasure, the same clump divided into three or four pieces and replanted in a group will look much better and produce better flowers.

While we are working on the perennials we could very well have some seed germinating of larkspur, snapdragons, and other annuals which could be used in masses to replace some of the shrubs which were killed. Dwarf dahlias grown from seed do fine when massed as a filler.

LIFE RETURNING
What shall we do with damaged shrubs? Fortunately, many which looked very doubtful are now beginning to show life, and these we shall save. Others will have to be severely pruned to remove all the damaged parts, and when this has been done they will not be much of a garden ornament.

Those worth saving can be dug and placed in a sheltered spot in the back garden where they can be nursed back to their original shapes, and their regular places can be temporarily filled with annuals and perennials.

The plants which have been killed outright seem to be the greatest worry to the home gardener. Should we use the same type of plants for replacements, or should we look for something more hardy to use in their place?

RARE OCCASION

There are two things to consider when seeking the answer to this question. The first is that the killing was not because the plants lacked hardiness in this area, but because the low temperatures came before the plants were dormant. The second is that few of today's gardeners can recall the killing November frosts of half a century ago, and it is quite possible that few of us will live to see it happen again.

There is no doubt that the plants which we have grown for years, and which have given us untold pleasure in the past, should again be used to furnish our gardens. We certainly should not forgo their beauty because they failed us once in a lifetime.

Good planting material in shrubs, trees, and perennials is available now. All we gardeners have to do is to make the decision to get started before the windy, rainless days arrive. Material planted now will become established more quickly than that which is planted a month from now.

Microwaves Heat Source In Revolutionary Range

By DON INGHAM

The oven of the future will go a long way in converting the kitchen from the stainless-steel-white porcelain laboratory of today into a warm, furnished, livable room.

This newest development, that will do about everything but boil water for tea (keep the electric kettle for that) is the Tappan electronic range. Instead of using heat, it generates microwaves that set roasts sizzling and potatoes steaming.

Before dashing out to order one, the cost should be considered, about $1,600, for delivery in six or seven months.

And before disposing of the idea completely because of the price, remember savings in space utilization, actual operation, savings in food, and, most important, savings in time.

This oven will heat a nursing bottle in 20 seconds, bake potatoes in four minutes, cook an egg in 20 seconds, finish a five-pound roast in 30 minutes, and have a pre-cooked frozen meal ready for the table in four minutes.

When it is absorbed, and only then, it is converted to heat. Foods absorb the energy and consequently become hot.

COOL COOKING

Air and many, but not all, glass, china, and paper products transmit the energy, and since there is no absorption, there is no heating.

This is much akin to the situation where, on a cold day, the sun streams through a window to warm a person lucky enough to be sitting in its rays. Yet the glass in the window remains relatively cool.

Microwave energy is reflected from metallic substances, such as the walls of the range, and again, since there is no absorption, there is no heating.

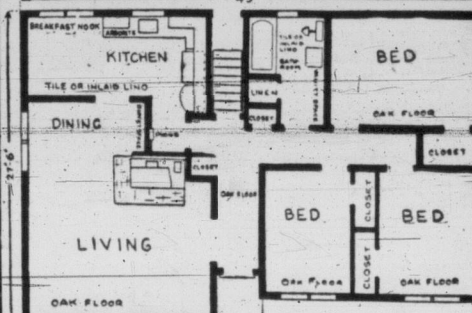

The net result is the opportunity to produce hot food in a cool atmosphere in cool utensils in a cool range. From the user's point of view, this means a cooler kitchen, elimination of danger from burns, and a cleaning technique which consists only of wiping the oven with a damp cloth.

Plan No. 123. One end of the bedroom becomes a generous Mr. and Mrs. wardrobe with sliding doors and lots of drawers.

Bunk Beds

Plan No. 128. One of the most unique and attractive double bunks with storage ever designed—it's so easy to build. No springs required.

Living Room Entry Divider

Plan No. 124. This unit takes up only a 12 inch strip of floor space—has closet on entry side, shelving and storage on living room side.

Modern Kitchen Cabinets

Booklet No. 113. Reprinted by popular demand! From a single cupboard to a bright new kitchen—16-page book tells you how to make kitchen cabinets in simple units.

Do it yourself or have it done—you save either way with

SASKATCHEWAN PLAN $10 MILLIONS IN RED

REGINA (CP)—The legislature was told Tuesday, expenditures of the province's hospital services plan in 1955 totalled $19,309,501, more than $10,000,000 above the amount collected in taxes for the scheme. The plan covered 822,956 residents or 92.6 per cent of the population. Per-capita cost was $23.46, compared with per-capita revenue of $10.81. The plan is operated by the CCF government.

ITALIAN PRESIDENT WELCOMED AT OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Italian President Giovanni Gronchi arrived by train today for a three-day state visit to Ottawa.

He walked down the red-carpeted platform from his Montreal train to be greeted by Governor-General Massey, Prime Minister St. Laurent, External Affairs Minister Pearson, other members of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps.

Mr. Gronchi read a brief statement in French in which he spoke of Italy's great friendship for Canada. His is the first visit to Canada of an Italian head of state.

HOUSE AFTERMATH

C. D. Schultz Now Not With Pacific Coast Co.

VANCOUVER—A statement was issued here today on behalf of C. D. Schultz, head of C. D. Schultz & Company, the forest consultant firm, denying that he now has any connection with Pacific Coast Services Ltd.

Pacific Coast Services was the firm named by George Gregory MLA in the Legislature early Friday morning in connection with a trip taken by former Forests Minister Robert Sommers and his family to the East in 1953.

A spokesman for Mr. Schultz, when questioned, said Mr. Schultz was a director of Pacific Coast Services Ltd., up until 1949.

Text of the statement issued over Mr. Schultz's name follows:

"My attention has been directed to the report in the Vancouver Province and the Vancouver Sun on March 2nd of the charges made by Mr. George Gregory MLA, and also solicitor for Mr. Sturdy in the Legislature, which names 'Pacific Coast Services Ltd. in which C. D. Schultz and H. W. Gray are interested' and alleges improprieties against this company described by Mr. Gregory as a 'bucket shop'."

Mr. Gregory does not state how I am "interested" in that company. "I am not a director, officer, shareholder or employee of Pacific Coast Services Ltd. and am not 'interested' in that company. Mr. Gregory's statement is false insofar as I am concerned."

"The statement made by Mr. Gregory on the floor of the House is a slander upon me and the newspaper reports containing the statement a libel."

"However, I am advised by my solicitor that speeches in the Legislature are absolutely privileged and that a faithful report of such speeches in a public newspaper containing matter disparaging to the character of an individual is not actionable at the suit of the person whose character has been defamed."

"Mr. Sturdy's solicitor, Mr. Gregory, being a lawyer, knows this and has taken advantage of the protection afforded him as an MLA to defame me in this manner under conditions where I have no recourse at law."

"I invite Mr. Gregory to republish outside the sanctuary of the Legislature the exact statement made by him in the House."

Snow and high winds that hit Victoria overnight and today are expected to continue in milder form into Sunday, according to weatherman William Mackie.

"Precipitation will be mostly rain except in the coldest part of the night, when there will be rain and snow mixed," he said. "Winds Sunday will be westerly at 25 miles."

Victoria and Vancouver Island escaped the main force of the storm that struck the whole of the north Pacific coast.

LINES DOWN

In Vancouver power and telephone lines were ripped from poles, and firemen answered 23 calls in four hours. A sheet of thick plate glass was blown in at a downtown bank.

Six Trans-Canada Air Lines flights between Vancouver and Victoria were canceled as thunderstorms occurred over the Gulf of Georgia during the gale. Hurricane-force winds that reached 81 miles per hour in Seattle damaged small buildings and power lines, and disrupted Puget sound ferry schedules.

Northwestern Oregon had an unexpected snow storm early today in the wake of Friday night's damaging wind. The snow turned to rain later.

The 50-mile-an-hour blow which battered the Portland area smashed windows, toppled power poles and plunged large areas of the city into darkness. Damage is expected to total thousands of dollars.

Gusts of 85 miles per hour were reported today in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Gale warnings were posted here in ample time for all small craft in the area to reach sheltered waters.

Only Courtenay escaped overnight and early today as cold, wet, unstable air from the Pacific gave snow at Duncan, Nanaimo, and Port Alberni. Winds that were moderate at other island points, however, were reported as "severe" at Courtenay.

Roads were reported in good condition throughout the island. Traffic was going over the Malahat without delay, and highways department crews are standing by to meet any possible difficulties.

Snow fell on the Alberni summit all night, but road crews kept the highway open and traffic was not delayed.

Granted Reprieve

LONDON (Reuters) — A 22-year-old London warehouseman, Patrick Ross, who was sentenced to death for murdering an Indian student, has been granted a reprieve, the home office announced today.

Two weeks ago the House of Commons voted to abolish hanging as the penalty for murder.

MARTIN GIVES ANSWERS ABOUT SALK VACCINE

A question on everyone's mind in the next few weeks is Salk vaccine, to be given to more than 2,000,000 Canadian children. In today's Weekend Magazine, national health minister, Paul Martin, answers a series of pertinent questions about the great anti-polio drive.

FOUR AIR CRASHES

10 Bail Out Over Tacoma

TACOMA, Wash. (UP) — Ten men parachuted from an air force KC-97 tanker today after three of the plane's four engines failed.

The pilot, who was not identified immediately, was able to take the plane into McChord air force base on one engine and crash-landed it. He was taken to a hospital for observation, but officers at the air base said he appeared to be "all right."

The 10 men who parachuted came to earth in a Tacoma residential area.

KEFLAVIK, Iceland (UP) — A jinxed U.S. Air Force Globemaster crashed into the stormy North Atlantic off Iceland Friday night with 17 men aboard and searchers today sighted burned plywood fragments near the area.

A weather ship also reported finding a charred oxygen bottle floating in the sea.

A big air and sea search began immediately after the huge C-124 flashed a "May Day" distress signal shortly after it took off from Keflavik for the Harmond air force base in Newfoundland.

It was the return leg of a hard-luck voyage for the cargo-carrying U.S. aircraft. On the flight to Iceland only a week ago, the plane barely averted a forced ditching in the sea because of engine failure. But it managed to limp safely into Keflavik.

The Globemaster took off Friday evening from Keflavik air base on the return voyage, but an hour and a half later radioed it was in distress approximately 200 miles over the gale-chopped Atlantic. The plane reported three of its four engines had failed.

This morning an international weather ship, the Alpha, radioed it had sighted smoldering bits of plywood, believed to be from the plane, about 12 miles from the Globemaster's last reported position.

Two Jets Hunted in Washington

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — A 40-man ground party headed up the snowy flanks of 6,820-foot Whitehorse Mountain at dawn today in the search for two missing F89 jet interceptors and four men the planes carried.

The two twin-engine F89s, all-weather interceptors, were believed to have crashed into the side of Whitehorse Mountain, three miles south and west of Darrington, a logging community 31 miles northeast of here.

Both planes, based at Paine, Wash., reported trouble shortly before they vanished Friday. One of the F89s radioed it was having communications difficulties. Shortly afterward the second jet reported fuel trouble.

The Snohomish county sheriff's office and air force spokesmen at Paine both said they had received two separate reports of two distinct explosions on Whitehorse mountain's side at approximately 11:52 a.m.

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters) — Seven men are believed to have been killed when a Royal Air Force transport plane crashed in the dense jungle near here.

A helicopter sighted the burned wreckage today and radioed to the air force base: "There is no sign of life."

NHA Changes Will Boost Loan Limits Up $1,500

OTTAWA (CP)—Broad changes in federal housing legislation, including a boost in payments for city slum clearance, were indicated today by Works Minister Winters.

He gave notice of a bill to provide payments to municipalities, totalling up to $25,000,000, "to assist in the clearance, replanning, rehabilitation and modernization of blighted areas."

Officials have said this will permit slum areas, cleared with federal aid, to be used for stores, offices and factories. At present, aid is given only if the cleared area is used for housing, city beautification or municipal structures.

A brief outline of other proposed changes in the National Housing Act were given in Mr. Winters' notice.

One change would increase the size of home improvement loans guaranteed to $200,000,000 from $125,000,000.

The ceiling on individual home improvement loans, now $2,500, is expected to be set at about $4,000.

The present ceiling on all housing loans insured by the government would be doubled to $4,000,000.

Under the NHA, the government insures mortgages by approved lending agencies, such as banks and insurance companies, with the borrower paying the insurance premium. The premium is two per cent of the loan's value in the case of home mortgages and one per cent of home improvement loans.

Rock Hits PGE Coach, Kills Man

4 Others Hurt In Accident

LILLOOET, B.C. (CP) — One man was killed and four persons were injured Friday night when a rock crashed into the side of the day coach of a Pacific Great Eastern Railway train.

The rock was believed loosed by high winds which swept through interior British Columbia from the coast overnight. The winds reached 55 to 60 miles an hour in gusts at Vancouver.

The accident occurred between Shalalth and Lillooet, about 125 miles northeast of Vancouver. The train was northbound from Squamish to Prince George.

Identity of the fatally injured man was withheld pending notification of his next of kin.

Railway officials said the man was the first person to be killed on the Pacific Great Eastern. An inquest will be held.

B.C. Man Killed As Car Overtakes

HANEY (CP)—A young Langley man was killed late Friday and his companion pinned beneath their overturned car at Kanaka Creek bridge.

Police said the car apparently went out of control after crossing the bridge and hurtled off the highway.

Injured was Duane McLinton, 21, of Cloverdale.

Name of the dead man is being withheld until next of kin are notified.

Last-Minute Plea For Probe Refused

By TOM GOULD, Times Political Reporter

Forecasts of an early general election in British Columbia came from many shades of political opinion today following the prorogation Friday night of the explosive fourth session of the 24th legislature.

Although some observers feel the government has lost ground over the resignation of Forests Minister Robert Sommers and the Sturdy case, experienced political strategists expressed the view Premier W. A. C. Bennett would seek to clear the air with an appeal to the voters.

They point out the resignation of one minister in such circumstances does not necessarily hit the whole administration.

But since a judicial inquiry into the affair has been refused by the government, it is bound to face a running attack in the country on the issue. Only an election could remove this source of criticism.

Both the CCF official opposition, and the Liberal party have conventions slated in Vancouver on April 6 and 7, when plans to fight an election will be drafted.

CCF Ready for 'Any Eventuality'

CCF members held a two-hour caucus after the House prorogued at 8:40 p.m. Friday and laid their plans. The following statement was issued:

"In view of the fact that the government continues to refuse a judicial inquiry (into the Sturdy case) plans must be laid to take the facts to the people through our own organization. We therefore are alerting our organization for any eventuality."

Asked to interpret the phrase "any eventuality," CCF leader Arnold Webster said "that means a possible election in the fall of 1956, or even the spring of 1956."

No Response to New Charges

Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner did not respond in any way during the marathon sitting of the House Thursday night and Friday morning to new charges against Mr. Sommers laid by George Gregory (L-Victoria).

Liberal Leader Arthur Laing, who early this year predicted a spring general election, said: "There may be less chance now than two or three weeks ago."

The situation has changed. The Social Crediters lost a tremendous amount of ground as a result of their actions in the House and Bennett may not take a chance.

However, the Liberal convention will consider an election program to prepare for what might happen.

Premier Bennett looked tired as the House met for a half-hour session Friday night to prorogue. Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross gave royal assent to bills approved during the session.

The premier will leave Monday for Ottawa, and a resumption of the federal-provincial taxation conference.

PARLEY SET MARCH 26-28

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today formally announced that the meeting of Prime Minister St. Laurent, President Eisenhower and President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico will be held at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., March 26-28.

After Queen of the South had led 2-1 at halftime, Hearts, with only one win from their previous 10 cup ties against Rangers, made no mistake this time, trouncing the Glasgow team 4-0.

Celtic and Alder Rovers also fared over Airdrieonians and got through, scoring 2-1 victor Patrick Thistle respectively.

CLYDE IN SEMI-FINALS

Clyde, holder of the Scottish Cup, got through to the semi-finals by hanging in three second-half goals without reply after Queen of the South had led 2-1 at halftime, Hearts, with only one win from their previous 10 cup ties against Rangers, made no mistake this time, trouncing the Glasgow team 4-0.

Celtic and Alder Rovers also fared over Airdrieonians and got through, scoring 2-1 victor Patrick Thistle respectively.

TV Hypnotist Stiffens Viewer. 60 Miles Away

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto reporter said Friday he went "stiff" as he watched a hypnotist on a television show originating in Buffalo, 60 miles away.

Fred Hollett of the Toronto Telegram said he had to be awakened from a trance by telephone after Sam Vine, billed as the amazing Mr. V., put a girl to sleep on a telecast from station WGR-TV Thursday.

When Vine put the girl to sleep Hollett, in the words of his wife, went "stiff as a stick." She yelled at him and clapped her hands, with no effect. So she phoned Vine.

On Vine's instructions she put

PRAYER FOR TODAY

GOD OF COMPASSION, love and mercy, draw near to those who suffer, to those who mourn. And use us, we pray Thee, by giving us the faith and willingness to help these grieving ones, through the goodness and love of Thy son, our saviour, Jesus Christ. Amen.

ELECTION TALK GROWING

MARTIN GIVES ANSWERS ABOUT SALK VACCINE

A question on everyone's mind in the next few weeks is Salk vaccine, to be given to more than 2,000,000 Canadian children. In today's Weekend Magazine, national health minister, Paul Martin, answers a series of pertinent questions about the great anti-polio drive.

FINAL BULLETINS

Johnson's Scoring Record Back

SEATTLE (CP)—Earl Johnson, rookie with Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League in 1951-52, has been given back his scoring record by Al Leader, league president. Johnson scored 37 goals for the Flyers in his rookie year. Leader announced Monday that Barry Cullen of Winnipeg, with 32 goals, had tied Larry Poppen, rookie with Vancouver in 1952, for the rookie record.

Leader said today a check of league records showed that Johnson's mark had been overlooked.

Eden, Mollet to Meet in London

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Mollet will meet "in the near future" for an exchange of views on the international situation, it was announced today.

A spokesman for Mollet said in Paris the meeting will probably be in London. The date will be announced later.

Edmonton Man Heads CRU

TORONTO (RUP)—Ken Montgomery, president of the national champion Edmonton Eskimos, was elected president of the Canadian Rugby Union at its annual meeting today, succeeding James McCaffrey of Ottawa.

At today's meeting the CRU recommended that the Grey Cup final should alternate between the East and West, providing suitable financial arrangements can be made.

It is known that Vancouver will make a big pitch for the game in 1958, British Columbia's centennial year. The present CRU executive cannot award the game to the west coast city for that year but it is expected Vancouver will be chosen if its presentation includes attractive financial arrangements.

Diver to Stay Under 25 Hours

PERTH, Australia (Reuters)—Policeman Theo Brown, 21, slid beneath the water at Woodman's Point, South Freemantle, in a diving suit today and hopes to stay there for more than 25 hours to wrest the world underwater endurance record from Guy Cadieux, a Canadian.

Reds to Release Danish Prisoners

MOSCOW (AP)—The Kremlin's leaders promised today to release any Danish war prisoners still held in the Soviet Union.

Then the Russians gave a lavish champagne luncheon for visiting Danish Premier H. C. Hansen.

LONDON (Reuters)—Newcastle United, last year's winner of the Football Association Cup, was eliminated from the current competition when it lost 2-0 at home today to Sunderland in the sixth round.

Other clubs which reached the semi-finals are Manchester City, runner-up last year, which defeated Everton—2-1 today and Birmingham, 3-1 victor at Arsenal.

West Ham United, only English League Second Division team in the running, played a 3-3 tie with Tottenham Hotspurs and their game will be replayed.

CLYDE IN SEMI-FINALS

Clyde, holder of the Scottish Cup, got through to the semi-finals by beating in three seconds-half goals without reply after Queen of the South had led 2-1 at halftime. Hearts, with only one win from their previous 10 cup ties against Rangers, made no mistake this time, trouncing the Glasgow team 4-0.

Celtic and Raith Rovers, also got through, scoring 2-1 victories over Airdrieonians and Partick Thistle respectively.

Hang Mau Terrorists

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Nine Mau Mau terrorists were hanged at Nairobi prison Thursday night, it was announced Friday. Three had been convicted of murder, four of illegally having firearms and two of administering a Mau Mau oath.

More Snow, Wind Due Here; Mainland Takes Full Force

Snow and high winds that hit Victoria overnight and today are expected to continue in milder form into the Pacific coast.

"Precipitation will be mostly rain except in the coldest part of the night, when there will be rain and snow mixed," he said. "Winds Sunday will be westerly at 25 miles."

Victoria and Vancouver island escaped the main force of the storm that struck the whole of the north Pacific coast.

LINES DOWN

In Vancouver power and telephone lines were ripped from poles, and firemen answered 23 calls in four hours. A sheet of thick plate glass was blown in at a downtown bank.

Six Trans-Canada Air Lines flights between Vancouver and Victoria were canceled as thunderstorms occurred over the Gulf of Georgia during the gale.

Hurricane-force winds that reached 81 miles per hour in Seattle damaged small buildings and power lines, and disrupted Puget sound ferry schedules.

Northwestern Oregon had an unexpected snow-storm early today in the wake of Friday night's damaging wind. The snow turned to rain later.

The 50-mile-an-hour blow which battered the Portland area smashed windows, toppled power poles and plunged large areas of the city into darkness.

Damage is expected to total thousands of dollars.

Gusts of 85 miles per hour were reported today in the Queen-Charlotte Islands.

Gale warnings were posted here in ample time for all small craft in the area to reach sheltered waters.

Only Courtenay escaped overnight and early today as cold, wet, unstable air from the Pacific gave snow at Duncan, Nanaimo, and Port Alberni.

Winds that were moderate at other island points, however, were reported as "severe" at Courtenay.

Roads were reported in good condition throughout the island. Traffic was going over the Malahat without delay, and highways department crews are standing by to meet any possible difficulties.

Snow fell on the Alberni summit all night, but road crews kept the highway open and traffic was not delayed.

NHA Changes Boost Loan Limits $1,500

OTTAWA (CP)—Broad changes in federal housing legislation including a boost in payments for city slum clearance, were indicated today by Works Minister Winters.

He gave notice of a bill to provide payments to municipalities, totalling up to $25,000,000, "to assist in the clearance, replanning, rehabilitation and modernization of blighted areas."

Officials have said this will permit slum areas, cleared with federal aid, to be used for stores, offices and factories. At present, aid is given only if the cleared area is used for housing, city beautification or municipal structures.

A brief outline of other proposed changes in the National Housing Act were given in Mr. Winters' notice of a resolution which must be adopted before the bill is introduced in Parliament.

One change would increase the size of home improvement loans guarantees to $200,000 from $125,000.

The ceiling on individual home improvement loans, now $2,500, is expected to be set at about $4,000.

The present ceiling on all housing loans insured by the government would be doubled to $4,000,000.

Under the NHA, the government insures mortgages by approved lending agencies, such as banks and insurance companies, with the borrower paying the insurance premium. The premium is two per cent of the loan's value in the case of home mortgages and one per cent of home improvement loans.

On Vine's instructions he put the telephone to Hollett's ear and the reporter woke up to the sound of...

"Three, two, one... When you wake up you'll feel fine, you'll feel better than you ever have before."

Mr. Vine said "the average television viewer has nothing to fear."

B.C. Vote Seen Within 12 Months

By TOM GOULD, Times Political Reporter

Forecasts of an early general election in British Columbia came from many shades of political opinion today following the prorogation Friday night of the explosive fourth session of the 24th legislature.

Although some observers feel the government has lost ground over the resignation of Forests Minister Robert Sommers and the Sturdy case, experienced political strategists expressed the view Premier W. A. C. Bennett would seek to clear the air with an appeal to the voters.

They point out the resignation of one minister in such circumstances does not necessarily hit the whole administration.

But since a judicial inquiry into the affair has been refused by the government, it is bound to face a running attack in the country on the issue. Only an election could remove this source of criticism.

Both the CCF official opposition, and the Liberal party have conventions slated in Vancouver on April 6 and 7, when plans to fight an election will be drafted.

CCF Ready for 'Any Eventuality'

CCF members held a two-hour caucus after the House prorogued at 8:40 p.m. Friday and laid their plans. The following statement was issued:

"In view of the fact that the government continues to refuse a judicial inquiry, (into the Sturdy case) plans must be laid to take the facts to the people through our own organization. We therefore are alerting our organization for any eventuality."

Asked to interpret the phrase "any eventuality," CCF leader Arnold Webster said "that means a possible election in the fall of 1956, or even the spring of 1956."

The CCF group closed its ranks during the caucus, an other indication of the strong feeling the party holds that Premier Bennett will call an election.

Mr. Webster was reported ready to hand in his resignation as party leader, but instead he came out of the caucus in a stronger position than ever before.

The government's complete silence on Mr. Sommers' resignation from the cabinet Monday; its refusal to order a royal commission of inquiry, and its failure to defend Mr. Sommers have added to the picture.

Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner did not respond in any way during the marathon sitting of the House Thursday night and Friday morning to new charges against Mr. Sommers laid by George Gregory (L-Victoria).

FOUR AIR CRASHES

10 Bail Out Over Tacoma

TACOMA, Wash. (UP)—Ten men parachuted from an air force KC-97 tanker today after three of the plane's four engines failed.

The pilot, who was not identified immediately, was able to take the plane into McChord air force base on one engine and crash-landed it. He was taken to a hospital for observation, but officers at the air base said he appeared to be "all right."

The 10 men who parachuted came to earth in a Tacoma residential area.

KEFLAVIK, Iceland (UP)—A jinxed U.S. Air Force Globemaster crashed into the stormy North Atlantic off Iceland Friday night with 17 men aboard and searchers today sighted burned plywood fragments near the area.

A weather ship also reported finding a charred oxygen bottle floating in the sea.

The Globemaster took off Friday evening from Keflavik air base on the return voyage, but an hour and a half later radioed it was in distress approximately 200 miles over the gale-chopped Atlantic. The plane reported three of its four engines had failed.

This morning an international weather ship, the Alpha, radioed it had sighted smoldering bits of plywood, believed to be from the plane, about 12 miles from the Globemaster's last reported position.

Two Jets Hunted in Washington

EVERETT, Wash. (AP)—A 40-man ground party headed up the snowy flakes of 6,820-foot Whitehorse Mountain at dawn today in the search for two missing F89 jet interceptors and the four men the planes carried.

The two twin-engine F89s, all-weather interceptors, were believed to have crashed into the side of Whitehorse Mountain, three miles south and west of Darrington, a logging community 31 miles northeast of here.

Both planes, based at Pine, Wash., reported trouble shortly before they vanished Friday. One of the F89s radioed "The air force base: There is no it was having communications sign of life."

KUALA LUMPUR (Reuters)—Seven men are believed to have been killed when a Royal Air Force transport plane crashed in the dense jungle near here.
